Big Airship Coming.
Let the Dead Rest.
Trotzky Was Rich.
Our Prosperity Myth.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

GERMANY intends to lead the world in aircraft, and probably will do it, although the Allies forbid her to build fighting planes. Even that restriction will be forgotten if Moscow or Asia ever comes flying against Western Europe.

Germany, undoubtedly, will be first in trans-oceanic commercial flying. Count Zeppelin, dirigible, twice as big as the Los Angeles, is expected to start carrying passengers from Berlin to Lakehurst, N. J., next Sunday. She will be driven with "blue gas," a new fuel, and by German enterprise.

UNITED STATES officials have been forbidden to give any information of any kind about government aircraft plans or building.

That news, of itself, is encouraging. It may mean that our government means to take an active, constructive interest in aviation, instead of leaving that to private individuals, as hitherto.

California, by the way, leads America in aviation. California's licensed aircraft about equal those of New York and Illinois combined.

A PLAY to be produced in England resuscitates Britain's unknown dead soldier, rising, in uniform, to make a few remarks.

Organizations of ex-service men protest, justly.

It is time to let the unknown dead soldier rest in peace, wherever he may lie.

He should not be brought to life in plays or books. And he should not be used as an advertisement by visitors, borrowers of national funds, etc.

SO-CALLED Emigres, kicked out of Russia when the Romanoffs disappeared, protest against Americans engaging in Russian trade. When we send business and money to Russia, building property there, we diminish the probability of Czars returning.

That should be an inducement to help Russia as much as possible. But there is another inducement, powerful in this businesslike country.

THE American-Russian Chamber of Commerce shows that Americans exploiting government concession in Russia, made in one year 146 per cent on capital sent to Russia in the year, and 85.5 per cent on total capital invested.

That makes our 9 per cent on call money seem small. Money will go where 146 per cent is to be had, if it has to go through fire, and even if "big business" has to finance Communism.

High finance knows that when Communism grows rich, it is Communism no longer.

TROTZKY is writing his memoirs, which might be condensed into "Read what happened to Danton and Robespierre, and what usually happens to those that get in on the ground floor in revolutions."

The world, or part of it, will learn with surprise that Trotzky is a rich man, and learn without surprise, that the Soviet government has "sequestrated" his money. Robespierre and Danton had no money.

DEMOCRATS say our prosperity is "a myth." Wall Street does not agree with the Democrats.

September, 1928, now part of past history, broke all stock-selling records, with 90,906,718 shares, in spite of an interest rate that averaged 7.394 per cent for the month.

A business that can stand such usury must be prosperous.

DIVIDENDS of $277,666,833 declared last month, are $35,000,000 ahead of September a year ago. Dividends paid to investors this month-end, $500,000,000, break all records for the month.

If this country is not prosperous, what is prosperity?

EIGHT THOUSAND bankers, gathering in Philadelphia to discuss credit, etc., might also discuss usury, and violation of state laws on usury. The wisdom of killing a goose that lays golden eggs might also be mentioned.

THE world continues telling Mussolini that he cannot last, and he goes ahead, building government on solid foundations. He fights the falling birth rate, requires rich lands in Africa ...ar-home for surplus population, ...d today puts 20,000 men to work ... 13,000 miles of road building.

Widow Sobs At Murder Confessions

FOUR CONFESS HER HUSBAND'S DEATH

Mrs. Marie Spehar and her 5-year-old daughter, Marie, in court today heard four men admit that they were the slayers of Mrs. Spehar's husband, John. Mrs. Spehar, who once was arrested for the murder, which baffled detectives until they received an underworld tip, sobbed as the four admitted their guilt. Little Marie wanted to know "well, is it over now, Mama?"

Four Break Jail

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 1.—Four prisoners sawed their way out of the Greene county jail last night, slid down a rope made of blankets and escaped. Nineteen other prisoners made no effort to leave.

The prisoners are Harry Swaney, 22, and John Ledson, 21, both of Point Marion, held on larceny charges; Charles Allen, 29, serving a six month term for forgery, and John Hardin, charged with larceny.

The men sawed a bar, escaped into the outer corridor, and then sawed another bar from a window.

William Nugent, discovering the dangling blankets at 6 o'clock this morning, notified the sheriff's office. Sheriff Arno S. McClellan is in Erie on business. Mrs. Dan Phillips is acting deputy sheriff.

Speeds Car, Scatters Police

Scattering Patrolmen Carl Kiel and Walter Miller by stepping on the gas and speeding his auto, Marko Giavininia, 37, of 201 Robinson street, nevertheless failed to escape. Firing several shots into the air police forced him to stop.

The officers say they found several bottles in the auto. Giavininia, charged with being a suspicious person, was fined $100 or 30 days in the workhouse by Magistrate John W. Orie in Central Police Station.

SLOT MACHINES BARED IN GRAFT PROBE

The slot machine ring of Allegheny county, whose annual toll for the racketeers is estimated in the millions, was revealed today to the county grand jury which is hearing the graft charges of John J. Verona, the rebellious Republican of the Hill district, against Mayor Kline's administration.

Store proprietors, most of them from the South Side, who had been arrested recently by city police for operating the machines, were haled before the grand jurors and grilled by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner. They were, no doubt, asked to explain from whom they obtained the gambling devices, how the spoils were split and whether they knew of collusion between police and racketeers that "Boss" Verona, fired by the Mayor as police magistrate, charges exists.

CARSON ST. PEOPLE

Among these witnesses were these Carson street shopkeepers: Sam Johnson, Harry J. Schiller, William Palbaum and Stanley Cynba. Other witnesses whose testimony might have had to do with other angles of this investigation were Jack Kart, former partner of the Diamond Cafe, Graeme street; John Simon, steward of the Collis Club, James street, North Side; Byron Knabe, owner of a restaurant at 2613 Brownsville road; Julian Tananis, 634 Brownsville avenue.

Mrs. Anna M. Troetschel, of 1904½ Brownsville avenue, was the first woman to be called before the jury. She was the ninth witness of the day. With her husband she once owned a hotel, it was reported.

Gardner's plans to call Lieut. David Corbett, of the city homicide squad, today, apparently were temporarily shelved. The District Attorney announced last week that he would try to learn from Corbett whether certain politicians sought to "protect" some prisoners arrested in booze-gang warfare.

HOEY RAIDS

While a squad of county detectives was busy over the week-end notifying witnesses to appear, Inspector James N. Hoey sent his

QUIT PHILA. FARE FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia Rapid Transit's eight-cent street car fare case was dismissed today by the Supreme Court upon motion of the taxpayers who brought the suit.

Daniel J. Furey and other taxpayers entered the Federal District Court in May, 1926, to enjoin the increase, contending that the five-cent rate was fixed in 1907 by contract between the city and the company and could not be increased by the state commission until 1957. The District Court dismissed the suit for want of jurisdiction, taking the view that it was without power to interpret the state laws.

TRAIN-HATER PAYS $250 FOR TAXI RIDE

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Olin P. Drake, of Newark, who has an antipathy to trains, is on his way to Atlanta, Ga., in a taxicab.

He was charged $250 and the driver's expenses for the 850-mile trip.

Drake said he received word of the death of his sister in Atlanta but he wouldn't ride there on a train "under any circumstances."

FOUR GUILTY IN SPEHAR DEATH

BRUTALITY CHARGES BEFORE COUNCIL

Charges of brutality by police to prisoners, made by Alderman John J. Verona, in his letter to Mayor Charles Kline, answering Kline's note of dismissal as a police magistrate, have been laid before Council.

President James F. Malone this afternoon presented a copy of the Verona letter and it was referred to the Public Safety Committee, scheduled to meet tomorrow.

Verona, in answer to the Mayor's letter dismissing him as a police magistrate, cited several instances of alleged brutality by police in making arrests.

Motorman Hurt in Crash

The sudden shifting of a "Stop-Go" sign by a policeman to permit school children to pass, resulted in a traffic crash and injury of a motorman at Hillsdale and West Liberty avenues, Dormont, today.

When Nick Lichtenthall, 30, of Spring Garden avenue, brought his truck load of furniture to a sudden stop in obedience to the traffic signal, an outbound Mt. Lebanon street car, just behind, ploughed into the rear of the truck. The front end of the cab was crushed in and Motorman Michael J. Olseak, 40, of 3122 Jane street, suffered injuries to his back and lacerations. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. The truck, owned by the Feeser Transfer Company, 33 Barbeau street, was not damaged.

FATHER GIVES LIFE TO SAVE BABY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—His love for his newborn infant cost Anthony Ganas, 34, a day laborer, his life.

When Tony's wife confided to him a secret, his heart was filled with joy. Preparations were made and finally the great day arrived. Mrs. Ganas went bravely to the children's hospital and Tony went along and paced the halls as all expectant fathers do. Soon they told him the baby was born, but that the mother had died.

But that wasn't all. The little girl's life hung in the balance. She was anemic, needed more blood—and Tony didn't hesitate. Gladly he gave of his meager supply that his daughter might live.

Tony died last night at the hospital. His baby thrives and grows.

PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

EAST TILTS TO SMITH

Many voters of Montgomery county favor Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the straw vote canvass of Pennsylvania conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The number of ballots from that county is not sufficient to support any predictions as to its eventual choice, but there is evidence that Herbert Hoover will have some degree of contest in the county.

Montgomery is a singular county. It is a Republican stronghold. Many of its inhabitants are actually Philadelphians, from its neighboring county. Beautiful estates have been built in Montgomery county by Philadelphians of wealth.

One of the largest counties in Pennsylvania, Montgomery does not include a third-class city within its borders. The head of its Republican organization, who is now Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, has reigned longer, probably, than any county leader of the state.

The total vote to date in the Pennsylvania poll, conducted in connection with the nation-wide canvass by the Hearst papers, is as follows: Hoover, 34,683, including 27,421 men and 7,262 women; Smith, 23,404, including 17,817 men and 5,587 women.

2 Nabbed By Smith Guards

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Two men who attempted to force their way by patrolmen guarding the approach to Gov. Smith's suite at the Hotel Seneca were taken into custody today when the officers discovered that one of them carried a revolver.

They gave their names as Albert Ella and Charles Civiletta. Civiletta, who had a permit to carry the revolver, told police his brother had been killed in a gang battle four years ago and that he carried the gun for protection.

He proved to the satisfaction of authorities that he was acquainted with a member of the governor's party, whom he wished to see when he pushed by the officers.

MYSTERY CLEARED AS BOYS PLEAD

Four youths pleaded guilty in Criminal Court today to the murder of John Spehar, Butler street saloonkeeper, who was beaten and shot to death in front of his garage at 4520 Stanton avenue, last March 4, during an alleged robbery attempt.

Mrs. Marie Spehar, who saw her husband slain, and later was arrested and exonerated, sobbed as she heard the pleas entered by the four defendants: Charles Bowers, now serving a term in the Western Penitentiary; Carl Lucas, of 181 Forty-fifth street; Anthony Marino, of 1201 Sheffield street, and Frank Skalski, of 1607 Fifth avenue.

DEGREE NOT FIXED

After the noon adjournment, Judge Elder W. Marshall, before whom the men were arraigned, was to hear evidence to determine degree of guilt. Assistant District Attorney Earl Adair is acting for the commonwealth, and Attorneys Benjamin A. Lenche, Peter M. Cancelliere and Homer N. Young for the defendants.

A long series of side-bar conferences delayed procedure until shortly before the noon adjournment, one of the defendants refusing to agree to an admission of guilt. While the attorneys parleyed, Mrs. Spehar by turns sobbed and quieted her five-year-old daughter, Marie, who found the proceedings irksome.

Spehar was attacked at the door of his garage early on Sunday morning, March 4, after closing his saloon. In April, after Mrs. Spehar had been exonerated, an underworld "tip" led to the arrest of the defendants. According to city detectives, the men were attempting to raise a defense fund for a companion who was facing trial.

Police declared robbery was the motive for the crime. A murder committed during the course of such a crime is described by statute as first degree murder.

WIDOW TAKES STAND

Tearfully, Mrs. Spehar, on the witness stand, told the story of the murder. She and her husband had returned home between 1 and 2 o'clock the morning of March 4, she testified. Spehar had alighted to put the car in the garage when two men grabbed him. A third man, whom she identified as Skalski, seized her, placed his hand over her mouth, and said, "Give me your money."

Police Capt. John Hogan testified he had talked with Spehar in the hospital and Spehar said he had been slugged by two men and shot by a third. City Detective Frank Dodson, of the homicide squad, testified the four defendants had made confessions, conforming to Mrs. Spehar's description of the murder.

MAN SLAIN IN HOME; WOMAN IS DETAINED

MARTINS FERRY, O., Oct. 1.—Mrs. Ray Richardson, 30, is in jail today awaiting examination in connection with the murder of Albert Briggs, 27, following a party that started Saturday. Mrs. Richardson said her husband, a steel mill roller at Yorkville, is in Virginia on a hunting trip and that she was entertaining Briggs and two couples, one from East Steubenville and the other from Follansbee. She told police that upon returning to the house after accompanying the West Virginians to the interurban car for their trip homeward she found Briggs fatally shot. She asserts he said some one shot him. Mrs. Richardson admitted ownership of the gun.

Police Paying Ex-Victims To Be Mum

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Philadelphia police are now reported to be paying "protection money" to saloonkeepers.

District Attorney John Monaghan was informed today, as he resumed the police extortion investigation, that saloon men in some parts of the city are making police commanders refund money they had extorted.

The saloonkeepers have threatened, Mr. Monaghan was told, that unless the police refund, the saloonkeepers will report to Monaghan what has been going on.

In several cases, it was sai district commanders have be forced to return all the "prot tion money" they had gathe in since they took charg their districts last May at time of the police reorga tion.

BUS COMPANY HERE MAKES 12.49 PCT. BY OVERCHARGING PUBLIC

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Last year the Pittsburgh Motor Bus Company earned twice as much as the amount that would be considered reasonable on its investment. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph originally estimated that the ...company had a return of 11 per ... on its investment in 1927. ... thorough study of the ... proves that the original estimate was conservative. The actual return was 12.49 per cent.

Between 6 per cent and 7 per cent is usually considered a proper yield in earnings for public utility companies.

The return on the investment has been calculated on the basis of the company's own figures. At ... one item in the income ... York ... able, but the company has ... given the benefit of the doubt, ... Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company has been charging depreciation of 25 per cent annually on ... ment. Such a basis ... equipment will be ... end of four years ... other cities the ... charge depreciation ... six to 10 years ... system of depreciation were used, the return on Pittsburgh Motor Coach's investment would be greater.

EARNED $56,150

In 1927 the bus company earned ... after deducting all expenses ... allowing for depreciation, but ... charging interest [illegible]

The interest was not charged from earnings in making the calculation because the money borrowed was part of the invested capital on which the return was shown.

The investment of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company at the end of 1927 consisted of $160,000 of capital stock, $236,522 borrowed from ... companies and a surplus ... This makes a total investment of $449,556. The earnings last year were 12.49 per cent of this figure.

The method of accounting used tends to show a smaller return than actually took place. The bus company has been expanding rapidly, and new equipment was being purchased throughout the year. No figures showing the average investment in 1927 are available, so that it was necessary to use the investment at the end of the year, although much of the equipment this represented had been in service only a few months and had not been earning for the full year.

The surplus also included the earnings from 1927, although this entire amount should not have been

Pittsburgh Motor Coach ompany has shown an average return on its investment for its entire life which is greater than public utilities normally have a right to expect. There is no justification for the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company to earn more than a reasonable return in the future years of its operation.

A return of over 12 per cent is not far short of highway robbery.

Lose Loot Fleeing Robbery

A dozen suits of men's clothing, part of the 1,500 robbery staged at the store of Harry Hadras, 1801 Carson street, last night were dropped by the thieves almost in front of the South Side Police Station. The clothing was found before the robbery was discovered.

Hadras reported the loss of 20 suits worth $600, four overcoats worth $92, 10 top coats worth $200, hats, underwear and other wearing apparel valued at $600. The thieves drilled a door panel and reached inside the store to unlock a door. They evidently had driven past the police station to escape and dropped part of their loot at South Thirteenth and Bingham streets.

Mrs. Emilia Aldeter, 342 Main street, reported the theft of four fur sets valued at $400 and other wearing apparel from her home.

Student Dies in Hazing

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Nolte McElroy, 19, University of Texas student and athlete of Houston, Tex., was dead today, the victim of a mock Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity initiation which turned from a bit of student horseplay to tragedy.

McElroy died last night a few minutes after being shocked by light wires, connected by a rheostat to two sets of bedsprings through which he crawled as part of the traditional fraternity ritual for neophytes.

Two physicians who examined the body declined to say whether fright or the electricity itself caused death. Strength of the electrical charge which entered his body was not determined.

The fraternity issued a statement saying the youth fainted during the stunt, through which, it was asserted five other students had preceded him, and to which 184 other students had been subjected during the local chapter's history.

McElroy was said to have been fed a raw oyster, saturated with castor oil, as another part of the mock initiation preceding the bedsprings stunt.

Wanted—An outstanding citizen as candidate for Mayor of Pittsburgh, to be supported by the Pittsburgh Ministerial Union and groups sympathetic to good government.

Seven ministers, members of the executive committee of the Ministerial Union, this morning were named to confer with certain groups and choose a mayorality candidate, after the Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson, pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, submitted a resolution from a group of East Liberty ministers asking for that action. The resolution, unanimously passed, presented the first blow to the political organizations of the city and threw across the city the first shadow of next year's political fight.

The resolution:

COMMITTEE OF SEVEN

"Resolved, That the Pittsburgh Ministerial U[illegible] ppoint a committee of sev[illegible] call together and confer with representatives of groups sympathetic to good government with the object of securing, if possible, an outstanding citizen as candidate for Mayor of the City of Pittsburgh, and that the naming of this committee be referred to the executive committee of the union."

Following the unanimous approval of the 75 or more ministers attending the monthly meeting of the union, held in the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, Dr. Robinson explained the thought behind the action.

"Our committee appointed to lay the slot machine situation before District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner wishes to express our thanks to Mr. Gardner for his courtesy and promise to carry the grand jury investigation to the finish," he began. Continuing, he said:

"I have learned since that there will be two organization candidates in the coming mayoralty fight. That is assured. Also, there is talk of a third candidate being offered by a third organization, to combat the other two.

"Accordingly, I learn, the church is going to have the best opportunity in years, because of the division. And as a result of the great campaign going on in the churches and the unheard of registration in the independent wards, there is going to be a new constituency. I believe the members of the Ministerial Union should take the initiative and get interested in this movement."

With the resolution passed, seven ministers named to arrange the conferences were: Revs. D. H. Elliott, W. L. Ritter, G. B. Royer, John E. Simpson, Homer A. Flint, Norman Milliron and James E. Detwiler.

raiding squads into six alleged disorderly houses. More than a score of men and women were arraigned in Morals Court yesterday morning. Some of the places raided are said to have been operated by supporters of the Kline administration. If that is the case then the favoritism alleged to have been shown by the Hill police has changed suddenly since the probe began.

Verona's constables sat back over Saturday and Sunday and made no attempt to jail any police officers as they did two weeks ago. The jailing of police led to the open break between Verona and Hoey.

One of the witnesses held over from last week and expected to be summoned into the grand jury room today, is Lieut. David Corbett, of the homicide squad. There has been talk that he is to relate allege "fixes on murder cases where men were shot down by gunmen in the "booze war." During 1927 there were several score men murdered in various parts of the city and county for their alleged activities in bootleg dealings.

2 Garages Bombed in Taxi War

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Detective bureau bomb squads today were investigating two mysterious attacks on garages of the Yellow Cab Company.

The bombs exploded 20 minutes apart, tearing huge holes in two North Side garages, two miles apart. A cab driver, Edward Stone, was injured in one of the blasts. He was hurled against a work-bench when the bomb exploded 15 feet from him.

The bombings were seen by police as signalizing the renewal of "war" between the Yellow Cab Company drivers and drivers for a rival company.

Investigators expressed the opinion that the attacks were reprisals for the shooting and killing of a Checker Cab Company driver here a week ago.

Following the blasts special guards were thrown around other Yellow Cab garages and stations throughout the city.

HOOVER WINS LABOR BY NEWARK SPEECH

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Herbert Hoover has gathered an amazing harvest of support from labor leaders as a result of his recent "bread and butter" speech in Newark, N. J., it was announced at Republican headquarters today.

A flood of congratulatory messages, pledging their loyalty to Hoover, began to flow into the Hoover headquarters the day following his address and the tide has continued unabated ever since. Hoover's advisers declared the response to the speech has exceeded in volume anything they have witnessed in a half-dozen presidential campaigns.

LABOR LEADERS OUTSPOKEN

Among labor leaders, whose declarations for Hoover reached his headquarters within the last 48 hours, were Alexander F. Whitney, president of the Railroad Trainmen; William L. Hutcheson, general president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; D. W. Holt, international president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen, and L. G. Hines, former La Follette leader in Pennsylvania.

The trend of opinion among these labor leaders, according to their messages to Hoover's managers, indicated the Republican nominee would get a majority of the vote which went to the late Robert M. La Follette in the 1924 campaign. Hoover's "bread and butter" speech, it was said, inspired the trend.

At Newark, Hoover compared American wages with those of European and Asiatic nations on the basis of purchasing a pound of "bread and butter." He demonstrated that Americans were paid from three to 15 times as much as other nationalities.

"It (this prosperity) spells better homes, automobiles, radios and a thousand things for the family that were utterly unknown a generation ago and are now utterly unknown to the average citizens in most countries of the world," Hoover then said.

"Continuous employment and prosperity of labor," he added, "depend upon the continuance of Republican policies."

LA FOLLETTE LEADER WRITES

Labor apparently took him at his word as Hines, the La Follette leader, wrote "the working people of America have no desire to be reduced to the living standards that prevails in Europe and they will refuse to take any chances in that direction. For this reason, they will support Herbert Hoover for President."

Two other labor leaders—August F. Motz, of the Allied Printing Trades Council, and James L. Montgomery, secretary of the Typographical Union — expressed the same convictions. Motz said Hoover's Newark speech "rang true and it will be answered in unmistakable terms on election day by the industrial workers of America."

SPEECH COMPLETED

Hoover meanwhile, worked away upon correspondence at his headquarters, having completed his speech which will be delivered at Elizabethton, Tenn., next Saturday afternoon. He will leave here Friday night for the Tennessee town and return from there Saturday night.

The nominee appeared to consider the religious issue settled for good, since his double denunciation of a letter written under the stamped signature of Mrs. Willis Caldwell, Virginia's Republican National committeewoman, urging women "to save the United States from being Romanized." He twice denounced the letter, repudiated it and declared he sought no support on that basis.

CASHIER HELD $4,789 SHORT

OIL CITY, Pa., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Charges of embezzlement and misapplications of funds stand today against E. L. Flick, 25, cashier of the Citizens Bank at Pleasantville. The charges are preferred by John T. Stewart, state bank examiner, as an outgrowth of the robbing and firing of the bank early last Monday.

The charges against Flick were filed Saturday after a box of notes had been recovered from Oil Creek, where they were thrown by Sylvester Watson, Negro, who has pleaded guilty to charges of burglary, larceny and arson. Flick was charged with embezzling and misapplying $4,789.60 of the bank's funds between May 14 and September 10, of this year.

Watson, in pleading guilty to robbing and setting fire to the bank, implicated the cashier, who, he said, wanted the bank records destroyed.

Flick pleaded not guilty to charges of being an accessory to burglary, larceny and arson. He is in Oil City jail, while arrangements are being made to secure bond for his release pending a hearing is given him.

Four thousand dollars taken from the bank safe has been recovered. According to bank records there should have been $8,100 in the safe.

NAB BEADLING JUSTICE IN EXTORTION PLOT

Accused of extorting $250 from a miner he had arrested on a liquor charge, Justice of the Peace J. F. Smith, of Beadling, will be arraigned today before Alderman Thomas Flanigan on a charge of extortion.

Arrested by county detectives late Saturday, Smith was released pending the hearing today. The extortion charge is to be preferred this morning by Detectives Frank Ritz, Robert McMillan and John Geisler, who are said to have witnessed the alleged passing of the money to the squire.

Michael Schulin, the miner of Mine No. 3, near Castle Shannon, was arrested by a constable last Wednesday and taken before Smith. It was claimed that liquor had been found in the miner's car. According to Schulin, Squire Smith demanded $250 before he would drop the charges and return the man's automobile.

Attorney Louis Little took Schulin to the detective bureau on Thursday and $250 in marked bills was given to the miner, who, in company with the detectives, is said to have gone to Smith's office. After the alleged payment had been made Smith was arrested. He was released on $1,000 bond pending the hearing.

CARDS' DEFENSE MAY BEAT YANKEES

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Debunking neatly and quickly done while you wait, will be the slogan today, as the writer sets out to attempt a comparison of the two world series entries, the Yankees and Cardinals, with as little of the customary bunk as the rather stringent by-laws of the serious thinkers' association will permit.

There will be no man-to-man comparisons, for when these aren't actually futile, they are at least funny. What difference is there that one man may happen to be better than his rival in the position they fill? Baseball isn't decided on that basis. It is a team game, if ever there was one.

ANALYZES DEFENSE

There will be no especial departmental comparisons, either, although these may have their place. They get one away from essential fundamentalism, however. What is baseball? Yes, yes. Doubleday, a game. I was afraid I wouldn't catch you on that one.

Baseball, like any other contest known to man, is made up of two cardinal departments of play. They are attack and defense and, debunking the non-essentials as we go, we will proceed along these lines forthwith.

CATCHER VS. CATCHER

Since pitching is 60 per cent of the defense, it might seem that it isn't necessary to pursue our inquiry further. As a matter of fact, the defense behind the pitcher is the thing that makes the good ones look better and the bad ones worse than they could possibly be. The Cardinals' defense-behind-the-pitcher takes the cabinet pudding, too!

The catcher, they say, makes or breaks his pitcher. Jimmy Wilson, of the Cardinals, who, barring injury, will work all of the games, is one of the ranking catchers of baseball. And just what have the Yankees, by way of rejoinder? Bengough, mostly ordinary, sometimes actually mediocre, never brilliant. One can't compare him with Wilson, except to his disadvantage.

The two infields are taken up in the same spirit. Again the Cards score. Bottomley, Frisch, Maranville and High or Holm possibly wouldn't out-rank Gehrig, Lazzeri, Koenig and Dugan or Robertson, if all was well. But Lazzeri, with almost a useless arm, is getting by on raw courage alone and he is the man who is supposed to pivot them into double plays.

Now for the outfield. A few days ago, Combs crashed into the wall in Detroit, broke his wrist and is out of the series. If he was playing center field, there would be no question as to which had the better outfield defense. As it is I think I will give it to the Yankees, anyhow, although much of this notion depends upon Ruth's rounding to in the next few days. Hafey probably is a stand-off with Meusel in left field, each having his weak moments. Douthit in center is a better fly-chaser than either Durst or Paschal, substitutes for Combs, but a sound Ruth will go and get a lot of balls that will get away from Harper or Blades.

However, the entire scheme of defense leaves the Cardinals with quite the better of the debate.

The Cardinals are far the better defensive ball club as the matter rests today.

Pitching is defense, for the most part; so the Cards are away to a running start, with Pennock not likely to appear in any of the games and the Yankee staff consisting largely of Waite Hoyt and—er—yes, Waite Hoyt. The Cardinals can match him with any one of several men, Alexander, Sherdel and Haines, and have at least two pitchers, equally good, to counter with the following day.

A local "handicapper" has said said that it isn't in the book for Alexander to repeat his successes of the 1926 series against the Yanks. Perhaps not. But neither is it likely that the Yanks will repeat what they did to Sherdel, who didn't win a game, yet should have won two. Sherdel looks ready for the iron-man act in this issue, possibly pitching as many as three games. He ought to win two of them.

Alex still is one of the greatest single-game pitchers of the pastime and could come back for another, if necessary. Perhaps it won't be. McKechnie should cull at least three well-pitched ball games out of Sherdel and Haines, and this is regarding the matter from a most conservative viewpoint. Then there is Clarence Mitchell. I am aware that Clarence finished the season mostly on his hands and knees, but that was against teams that knew all about him. The Yanks never have seen that left-handed spitball and a new delivery always is good against a club of sluggers. Besides, if anything tends to cramp the Yankees' style, it is a left-hander.

Kidnapers, Bandits Routed

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Two bandits, with two kidnaped girls in a stolen automobile, left a trail of hold-ups and gun battles through Southern Indiana Saturday night, and after engaging in a running battle with Louisville police, abandoned the car and escaped yesterday.

Before they deserted the automobile under fire of two police riot cars, they slowed down long enough to throw the girls from the car and shoot a patrolman, J. W. Hardin, who was standing at his call box reporting the fight to headquarters. Hardin was not expected to recover. The identity of the two girls, said by police to have been forced into the car at New Albany, Ind., was not revealed. Neither of them was seriously injured, they said.

A man said to have [illegible]ted the description of one of the bandits was taken from an empty coach of an Illinois Central train at Litchfield, Ky., and was to be returned here for questioning. He gave the name of Earl Voldering, 37, Cincinnati, O.

HUNT LOOT OF CARNES

International News Service.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 1.—Convinced that Clinton S. Carnes, former treasurer of the Southern Baptists' Home Mission Board in Atlanta, Ga., must have considerable money cached in safety deposit boxes in various Winnipeg banks, police here today began a systematic canvass in the hope they might uncover some of the $1,000,000 Carnes is charged with having embezzled.

Carnes, captured here Friday after many weeks' search, posed as F. L. Lewis, of Milwaukee, and police believe they will be able to find deposits under that name. Although Carnes denied he had taken any such sum as $1,000,000, he did not deny that he had embezzled sums running into many thousands of dollars.

A considerable sum, the exact amount of which was not revealed by police, was found in Carnes' room and on his person. This, however, was a mere trifle compared to the amount he is alleged to have embezzled.

N. Y. Dems At Sea on Governor

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—An air of great uncertainty hung over the delegates to the New York state convention of the Democratic party today as to who would be the gubernatorial nominee.

At the last five conventions of the party Gov. Alfred E. Smith has been the nominee, practically without opposition.

There are a number of aspirants, but their campaigns have not reached the shouting stage, because it is recognized generally that the Governor, who will address the convention tonight.

Booms have been started for George R. Lunn, Schnectady, former lieutenant governor; Peter G. Ten Eyck, Albany, former member of Congress; Representative Meyer Jacobstein, Rochester; former State Senator Nathan Straus, Jr., New York State Senator William Lathrop Love, Brooklyn; former Attorney General Carl Sherman, Buffalo; Judge Thomas C. T. Crain, New York; Justice Townsend Scudder, of Nassau; and George Albert Wingate, Brooklyn.

NEW YORK THOUSANDS CHEER SMITH HOME

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Thousands of his fellow New Yorkers gave Gov. Alfred E. Smith a frenzied welcome today upon his return from his western tour.

The Governor was almost mobbed by the crowd when he stepped from his special train at 9:45 and entered an automobile.

"Atta boy, Al!" and "You told 'em, didn't you?" were shouted at him from all sides as the crowds strove to get closer to him. The crush was so great that Mrs. Emily Warner, the Governor's daughter, was separated from the party and had to be rescued by her husband, Maj. John A. Warner, chief of the New York constabulary.

The Governor's car barely crawled to the hotel, hemmed in on all sides by marchers. The Governor stood up most of the way, acknowledging the cheers with a wave of his light grey fedora. The brown derby was absent, the Governor having "swapped it for a dog" at Milwaukee yesterday.

MORE CAMPAIGNING

Five weeks remain before election day on November 6. Four of these weeks will be filled with hard, strenuous campaigning by the Democratic nominee. Chicago and St. Louis are to be visited before October ends, and there will be an excursion into the border states. But most of the time will be spent in the East, along the wet and populous Atlantic seaboard.

Gov. Smith returned from the West well satisfied in the main with his two weeks' journey through the grain belt—where the corn grows tall and where political insurgency grows apace with the corn. He believes he has won thousands of votes to his cause. He evades, however, any definite predictions.

Gov. Smith had on his train for days Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, who was La Follette's running mate four years ago. In every state visited there was some La Follette leader of four years ago to give counsel and advice, information and encouragement. The old La Follette lieutenants have assured Gov. Smith that he will corral the great majority of the independent vote of four years ago. Gov. Walter Maddock, of North Dakota, for example, said Gov. Smith would get 80 per cent of it in the Northwest. Gov. Smith was told the same thing in Wisconsin, where the betting is even on his carrying the state. La Follette carried it four years ago over both Coolidge and Davis.

It is upon this line of reasoning that the Smith managers believe the Western invasion has been highly successful. As one of them put it:

"We had little or nothing when we started out here. Now we have a few states certainly and a fighting chance in every state Gov. Smith has visited."

CROWDS TREMENDOUS

The crowds that have turned out to see the New York Governor have been enormous. Certainly no candidate for the presidency was ever greeted with greater outpourings.

Gov. Smith turned his attention today from national politics to state politics. Today and tomorrow be spent in Rochester, where the Democrats of New York are endeavoring to rig up a state ticket for November. It is no easy matter. Gov. Smith has dominated the Democracy of New York State for so long that the question of finding a successor to him as a gubernatorial candidate is a knotty one.

Barring unforeseen events, Gov. Smith will return to the executive mansion tomorrow night. He plans to rest for the remainder of the week while the national committee in New York completes details for the final whirlwind campaign. He probably will leave Albany again next Monday for a journey through the border states, which will be followed by a tour of the big cities of the East. A tentative date of October 17 has been set for Chicago.

2 HELD AS FAKE DEM SOLICITORS

Two men, arraigned in Morals Court today, were described by Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence as fake solicitors for Gov. Smith's presidential campaign. They collected, according to testimony, $200 before they were arrested. The two, held for further investigation, are registered as Leo Gallagher, 27, of 5235 Keyston street, and James Ritchie, 34, of 810 St. James street.

TWO KILLERS EXECUTED IN ROCKVIEW PRISON

CONVICTED OF MURDER IN HOLDUP

BELLEFONTE, Pa., October 1.—The state claimed two lives for one in the Rockview death house here this morning, and the murder of Norman E. Gibson, Delaware county prothonotary's son, was avenged.

With the first streak of dawn William R. Phillips and Jesse G. Parker, the doomed men, were made ready for their last earthly journey. Chaplain P. N. Osborne visited them in their cells for a few min[illegible] and accompanied them to the [illegible]r. He repeated with them the [illegible]'s Prayer.

[illegible]riving at the death house, Phil[illegible]s was the first to enter the death [illegible]air. He was strapped down. The [illegible]irst electric contact was made at 7:02. Another charge was sent through his quivering body a few minutes later. He was pronounced dead by the prison physician, Dr. C. J. Newcomb, at 7:09.

Parker mounted to the chair with firm step immediately after. The headpiece was set in place and the switch was thrown at 7:13. He stiffened and another charge was sent through the contacts and he was pronounced dead at 7:18.

Phillips and Parker were convicted in June. Evidence produced at the trial disclosed that the pair, in company with George Weir, came upon young Gibson at a lonely spot near Lenni. Phillips was driving. The trio attempted to hold up Gibson, who fought them, and during the struggle Gibson was mortally wounded.

Phillips, Parker and Weir were convicted of first degree murder, but Weir escaped the death penalty. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

BUGS BAER Says

BOTH candidates are too busy talking to say anything.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Idea of this campaign seems to be to get in as many words as possible before November fourth.

Minnesota is already smothered in rebuttals and Ohio is knee-deep in question marks.

This is one of those old-fashioned chatterfests where the candidate jumps on a stump, waves both arms, yells at the top of his education and denies it in the morning.

In view of the torrent of speeches which is rushing down the unprotected valleys and swamping the radio stations, we cannot tell whether this campaign is supposed to elect a President or a graphophone record.

Both candidates have a good chance in November unless one of them runs out of needles.

All this President business started with George Washington. He didn't have any opposition but he made speeches anyway.

Then he made some more speeches and they elected him President the second time.

Finally, George got smart. He stopped talking.

Jefferson thought that is was a good idea. There was no reason why he shouldn't claim the thirteen original states for himself.

That's how that started. Jefferson claimed 12 states and admitted that one might be doubtful, owing to the habit of the Indians of indorsing county chairmen with tomahawks.

Jefferson's only campaign expense was a bushel of oats for his hoss. This idea has since been elaborated.

It was during this campaign that Thomas made his famous remark when accused of taking a snifter of Scotch.

Thomas said, "Only by advice of tonsils."

There were many fist fights and riots during Jefferson's campaign. Thomas was a very dignified man and advertised for a slogan. His publicity man said, "Jeff, we cannot stop the fights. But I have a good idea. We will call them conventions."

And that's how that started.

Very soon the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president, Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, will devote his time almost entirely to radio sermons, non-sectarian, over a hook-up extended from Florida to Alaska. Short-wave broadcasting will carry his words throughout the world. He will receive $25,000 a year, it is said, as national radio pastor.

IROQUOIS CLUB AT CONNEAUT BURNED

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—The Iroquois Boating and Fishing clubhouse here was destroyed by fire when the building was ignited by flames from a kitchen chimney last night. Robert Moss, of Conneaut Lake, suffered a broken leg when a section of the chimney fell upon him.

The loss was estimated at $35,000. The frame structure was easy prey to the flames. Within half an hour the building was destroyed before a bucket brigade and the Meadville fire department could get into action.

The club, built in 1888, was dedicated 40 years ago last Friday. Prominent sportsmen from many places in this section of the state, including a number from Pittsburgh, are members of the club. Insurance carried on the property amounted to $10,000.

GIRLS IN PLANE CRASH, ARREST PREDICTED

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Two girls were injured seriously when an airplane in which they were passengers fell on a farm near New Alexandria yesterday. The injured are Josephine Seddock, 18, and her sister, Mary, 20.

The plane was piloted by Charles Spanko, who operates a flying field on the William Penn highway near New Alexandria. Spanko, cut and bruised, has no pilot's license, and the plane is not registered with the Department of Commerce, according to Capt. A. J. Oldham, State Highway Patrol. He said an arrest probably would be made today.

The plane went into a nose dive and crashed, one wing striking a tree.

The girls were pinned under the wreckage and the efforts of a number of men were needed to free them. They were taken to the Westmoreland Hospital where it was said Josephine was suffering from a fractured ankle, bruises and possible internal injuries, while Mary's leg was fractured, her ankle dislocated, probably suffering internal injuries, physicians said.

Byrd Expedition Takes Brookfield Butter!

Commander Richard E. Byrd knows the value of good food as a builder of strength and morale. His staunch steamships, the City of New York and the Chelsea, bound for the South Pole are carrying many products of Swift & Company.

Brookfield Butter, creamery fresh, is part of the precious cargoes — a sufficient supply for the band of hardy scientists and the crew during their long sojourn in the Antarctic.

Other Swift & Company products that will add pleasure to the meals aboard ship and on the icy wastes are:

Premium Frankfurts Pork Loins
Calf Liver Ox Tails Pigs Feet
"Golden West" Fowl Turkeys

Brookfield Butter is made in selected dairy regions and delivered to all parts of this country by quickest routes possible—fresh from the churn!

Thus the producer is furnished a daily cash market for his butterfat and the Swift nation-wide system of distribution assures consumers everywhere of fine creamery fresh Brookfield Butter as well as other Swift food products.

In Memoriam 1-B

The moon and stars are shining upon a lonely grave,
There sleeps our dear daddy we tried so hard to save.
We often sit and think of you and speak of how you died;
To think that you could not say goodby
before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best,
May God grant you eternal rest.

His wife and children. In loving memory of our daddy, George Barker, who died two years ago, September 29, 1926.

MORE AWARDS OFFERED ZAIN AD-TEST WRITERS

FUR COAT, CHAIR ADDED TO LIST OF PRIZES

Here's good news. More prizes for the amateur ad writers in the Zain Ad-Test—prizes in addition to the $15,000 in cash and merchandise that the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will award—are announced today.

A $500 natural squirrel fur coat will be given by Max Azen, of 705 Penn avenue, the furrier, to the writer of the add winning the $1,000 grand prize if that ad happens to deal with the Azen store and its products.

In addition, Max Azen offers a $100 fox scarf for the best advertisement of his store submitted during the entire course of the ad-test.

It behooves you to visit Max Azen's store at your earliest convenience and get acquainted with Azen's beautiful and serviceable merchandise. You will find furs and fur garments of very sort, some very valuable and others quite inexpensive. You may be very rich or in modest circumstances; no matter which, you will find at Azen's furs that will suit you.

BEAUTIFUL CHAIR OFFERED

Pickering's, furniture dealers at the corner of Penn avenue and Tenth street, will give a beautiful Cogswell chair to the writer of the best ad for their store during the first period. The chair is a special prize, in addition to the five regular prizes that the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will give for the five best ads about Pickering's during the same period.

You surely know Pickering's unless you are a stranger in the city. The very name carries a multitude of suggestions with it. "Nuf ced." Pickering's line of furniture is one of the most complete in the country. You will find it very interesting to make a trip through the store. Everything you can think of for furnishing a house is there in great variety as well as great abundance.

The makers of Tech Ice Cream will give a gallon of ice cream for each of the five best ads on their product during each of the six periods of the contest—this in addition to the five weekly prizes to be awarded during each period by The Sun-Telegraph for the five best ads about Tech ice cream.

FRUITFUL AD SOURCES

The china and glassware of C. Reizenstein and Sons, 625 Liberty avenue, will offer a fruitful source of ads worth reading to those who have appreciation of the beautiful. A visit to Reizenstein's, "Pittsburgh's oldest gift shop with the newest gift things," is like a trip to an art museum. One finds there delicate ware, exquisitely decorated, the product of master craftsmen, who put into their work the same pride and love that inspire painters and sculptors to turn out their masterpieces. If you care for glass and chinaware of rare beauty, you will rejoice in what you see at Reizenstein's. And their things don't cost so much as you might expect.

Laird's, 622 Liberty avenue and 215 Oliver avenue, have shoes suitable for all in the family. Their footwear for men and women is very well known. Do not forget that they also have shoes for the younger members of the family. Their junior lines of merchandise are deserving of your consideration when you prepare to write your ad about Laird's. Their policemen's shoes are invaluable to people who have to be on their feet a great deal and to those who have to be out in the streets a great deal in bad weather.

The Stevenson and Foster Company is in the Zain Ad-Test in two capacities, as printers, and as dealers in stationery and office supplies. Write ads dealing with both of these activities. You will not lack material for your stationery ad, for the company carries everything in the way of writing materials, letter paper, blank books and the like that you or any office or store requires.

MUSIC NOT OVERLOOKED

Music has become virtually a necessity. Fortunately it can easily be obtained. Though there be not one skilled musician in the family, every household can have the finest music at all times through the radios, mechanically operated pianos and phonographs obtainable at the S. Hamilton Company's music stores at 815-817 Liberty avenue, 6008 Penn avenue, East Liberty, and 722 Wood street, Wilkinsburg. You may want to hear a Beethoven symphony. Very well; you can get it in its entirety, magnificently played, in Hamilton's phonograph records. Or you may prefer a lively jazz piece or the latest popular song. Hamilton's will supply them, too. If you want a piano Hamilton's carry the best makes made, the kind that are used by celebrated concert pianists.

Most advertisements are intended to cause people to spend money. The Union Savings Bank wants you to write ads that will persuade people to save. Any original notions you may have that will encourage thrift can perhaps be used to advantage. The strength of the Union Savings Bank is one of its most powerful attractions to persons thinking of opening a savings account. Inquire about the resources of this great institution, "where savings are safe." Its convenient location also commends it as a depository. It is in the Frick Building, Fifth avenue and Grant street, within easy walking distance from any point in the downtown business district.

Familiarize yourself with all the 39 participating concerns. Read the rules carefully. Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper and put your name and address on the back, and also on the flap of the envelope in which you place your ads. SEND ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Special Prizes Offered In Ad-Test

The following special prizes, in addition to the $15,000 in prizes originally announced, are offered in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Zain Ad-Test:

PICKERING'S will give a beautiful Cogswell chair to the writer of the best ad on their store for the first period.

MAX AZEN offers a $100 Fox Scarf for the best ad on their store during the entire Ad-Test. If the $1,000 grand prize ad is about their store the writer will receive a $500 natural squirrel coat.

TECH ICE CREAM will give a gallon of ice cream for each of the five best ads on their product each period, exclusive of the first five winners selected by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

ROGAN CO. IN IMPROVED QUARTERS

The Grogan Campany today occupied its enlarged and improved quarters at Wood street and Sixth avenue, after completing extensive alterations that double floor space. Formal opening of the new show rooms drew many patrons and friends of the firm today.

The Grogan Company was founded in 1839 by Henry Richardson at Market street and Fifth avenue. Louis Mackintosh was Richardson's assistant. In the Civil War time, J. C. Grogan, then a boy of 11, entered his employ, ran errands, made himself generally useful and became apprentice.

In 1878, after the death of Mackintosh, who had succeeeded Richardson, Grogan, with a fellow employe, A. Merz, assumed control. The firm as thus constituted continued for eight years when Merz retired. This was in 1886, when Grogan acquired the ownership. The business grew as the city grew.

In 1902 the business had assumed such proportions as to prove a serious tax on the energies of one man, and Grogan, in recognition of the services of those who had assisted him in bringing about this development during the 16 years that he had been the sole proprietor, admitted four of his employes to partnership. They were John S. Crawford, William J. Sample, Albert L. Brehm and Francis A. Keating. M. L. Cronin succeeded Crawford on his retirement in 1909. In 1913 H. L. Tomb, and in 1915 George Nicklas were admitted to partnership.

Keating, who has been president of Grogan Company since 1913, began his work with Grogan at the age of 19. In speaking of the future of the company he said:

"We are now nearing our ninetieth anniversary. This milestone of which we are so proud seems to justify us in our long belief that our metals and our minerals, the jewels, have indeed in actuality close relation to the steel strength of our city and the spirit of its life.

"We are more grateful to Pittsburgh for its confidence than any words can say. In opening the enlarged Grogan establishment we are expressing concretely our natural, inevitable faith in the future of Pittsburgh. In making it as beautiful as we can, we are but doing what is natural and appropriate for a jewel and silversmithing house, rich with the associations of 90 years of Pittsburgh life, lying within the very heart of the Work Shop of the World."

WINS STAY IN DEPORTATION

A writ of habeas corpus, granted Saturday in Federal Court, directs Immigration Inspector W. H. Marshall to show cause tomorrow why Salvatore Galla, an Italian, should not be released by the immigrtion authorities. Gall is fighting an order of the Department of Labor ordering him deported.

Galla, a coal miner, asserts his deportation would be unlawful, declaring such action must be taken within five years from the date of the deportation order. The immigration authorities allege he was arrested at Tampa, Fla., for having entered the country without a passport.

He was released on bond given by his brother, Luigi Galla, of Pittsburgh, and on April 17, 1923, was ordered deported. Galla avers he never received the notice. He was re-arrested last Wednesday.

Women for Hoover Mrs. Rinehart Asserts

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—The women's national committee for Hoover has announced that Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, the novelist, in a statement indorsing Herbert Hoover's record as a humanitarian, said most of the women of the country are going to vote for Hoover because of his stand on prohibition.

"To uncounted numbers of them," the statement said, "Hoover's rally call for good conservation represented their sole chance to participate in the war. His stand on prohibition appeals to them, for the majority of the women of this country are dry and intend to remain so."

Richard Barthelmess to Star In Story of Young Convict Who Sings Way to Freedom

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS is going "up the river" again. Just as soon as he completed "Scarlet Seas," Frank Lloyd will direct the sober-eyed star in a Courtney Riley Cooper story called "Weary River," but the yarn has nothing to do with water. In it Dick is a convict, and while in jail composes a song entitled "Weary River," which he sings over the radio. Some way or another, it gains him freedom and justice.

It will be produced on the First National lot. And, as Warner Brothers now control First National, with Jack Warner as grand sachem, it is fair to suppose that "Weary River" will receive all the benefits of Warners' Vitaphone. And as there really will be a song to be sung, all Dick's many fans may thank the valiant brothers for the first opportunity of hearing his voice. A voice, incidentally, that exactly matches the Barthelmess personality.

For a whole 24 hours Hollywood has been seething with conjecture regarding printed stories that Wallace Beery had replaced George Bancroft as star of "The Wolf of Wall Street." Ordinarily a change in cast is no tremendous matter. There are many of them. But this announcement was somehow different. In the first place Bancroft's optional contract was known to have expired. Also is was rumored that George, aware of his value to the screen after "Underworld" and its followers, wished appreciation expressed in bigger and better pay envelopes. All in all, it looked very much as though Bancroft and Paramount had wished one another "goodbye and good luck."

But now everything is hunky-dory again. George has signed a brand-new contract, is back in the cast of "Wolf of Wall Street," and everybody's happy. And Hollywood breathes easier. Things have been fixed so that Fay Wray is back in the picture, too.

Instead of "Children of the Ritz," Alice White will follow "Ritzy Rosie" with "Bluffers." It has been thought best to co-star Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall in "Children of the Ritz." But whatever the story, Alice will keep right on bowling ten-strikes on the box-office alleys.

Frank Borzage has signed again with Fox. The director of "Seventh Heaven" and "Street Angel" will begin work on "True Heaven," a Tristam Tupper story, in which Nick Stuart and Helen Twelvetrees will be the leading players. Nick and Sue Carol, by the way, will be back from "Chasing Through Europe" in early November.

When Betty Bronson comes back home after her personal appearance with "The Singin' Fool" in New York, there is likelihood that she will be cast in the name role of a stage production of "Peter Pan." As all the world knows, this is the characterization which won Betty's first fame on the screen. Wouldn't it be nice if Paramount would synchronize the picture with sound and let us see it again as a Christmas special?

Reggie Denny has begun work on "Clear the Docks," and—wonder of wonders—his fiancee, "Bubbles" Steifel, whose new name is Betty Lee, will not be his leading woman. Reg. rather insisted upon having her for some time, but finally changed his mind and is quite content with the selection of Olive Hasbrouck to play the part. The company will leave for Seattle soon. And make a lot of sea-going sequences en route.

William Counselman, creator of the "Ella Cinders" comic strip, has moved from Mix to Pathe, where he will work in close accord with Paul Bern. His first production will be "Listen Baby," a vaudeville yarn written by Elsie Janis and Gene Markey. It will have dialog which Counselman will write. Eddie Quillan will have the featured role.

The complete cast of Warners' new picture, "Fancy Baggage," includes Audrey Ferris, Myrna Loy, Wally McDonald, George Fawcett, Hallam Cooley and Eddie Gribbon. Which, you will agree, is an array of talent to make 'em sit up and take notice.

"Big Bill" Russell, who is Helen Ferguson's husband, is the deep "menace" in "Madonna of Avenue A," Dolores Costello's next.

Norman Kerry was welcomed home to Hollywood, rested and ready for "action"—in the movie sense—after a summer in Europe. It is understood that Norman will be co-starred with Constance Talmadge in a series of photoplays to be produced by First National. This should prove one of the most

EXPERT ADVICE :-: NOW IS SOUGHT :-: FOR MANY FILMS

Colleen Moore had three noted aviators as technical director of "Lilac Time," in Lieut. Robert De Couedic, Capt. L. J. S. Scott and Lieut. Rudolph Schad.

J. P. McAvoy, newspaper writer and playwright, ought to know something about his own play, "Show Girl," so he discusses the fitness of Alice White for the leading role with Director Alfred Santell.

Thelma Todd, left, leading woman in "The Crash," had the technical advice of burlesquers in this scene, in which expert knowledge of the burlesque show was necessary in order to get the real atmosphere.

COMEDY, MUSIC IN BILLS

Tonight and for the balance of the week the New York Theater Guild will present "Volpone," the second of a series of five plays in the Nixon. Based on Ben Jonson's comedy, "Volpone" comes direct from the Guild Theater, New York, where it played 5½ months through the summer.

Tonight in the Alvin "Good News," Schwab and Mandel's musical comedy, opens its second and final week.

Vaudeville in the Davis this week is headed by three youngsters from the original "Our Gang" film comedy troupe. Among them is "Scooter" Lowry, singer and dancer, and Mary Kornman. The screen offering is Bebe Daniels in "Hot News."

Beginning Monday evening, October 9, the Theater Guild will present "The Guardsman," by Ferenc Molnar. Another cast drawn from the Theater Guild Acting Company will present the play in the Nixon. Heading this unit are Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. Other members of the cast are Ernest Cossart, Elliot Cabot, Hortense Alden, Jane Wheatley and Hannam Clark.

Next week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, comes the perennial musical hit, "Blossom Time," to the Alvin. The operetta is on a grand coast-to-coast tour commemorating the anniversary of the passing of Franz Schubert, whose romance and life are woven into the story of "Blossom Time."

LOVE and a lovely skin—they are so close together!

How wholly the screen star wins you when the close-up shows the fascination of her soft, smooth skin. Directors insist on perfect skin under the cruel close-up lights.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE LOVE SONG

By CAROL KENYON

EVERYBODY in the Critchlow offices loved Enid Mason and Donald Barstow for the quality they had in common.

No day's happenings were sufficiently trying to dim the sunlight of Enid Mason's cheerful smile. Enid was private secretary to Critchlow himself and had ample opportunity to demonstrate how invulnerable was the armor of her unfailing good nature.

Barstow was the bookkeeper, having worked his way up in an incredibly short time from being an understudy. He was young, handsome and as cheerful as Miss Mason. He had a habit of singing under his breath as he worked; humming snatches from the operas or bits of classic things which were unfamiliar to jazz crazy Horace, the office boy, but which Horace did not fail to recognize as "highfallootin" music and which prompted him to fasten the sobriquet of Caroos on Barstow before he had been at Critchlow's a week.

Barstow fell before the battery of Miss Mason's smiles almost as soon as he met her. He liked girls, generally speaking, but never in his life had he singled out any particular specimen for special attention.

Thus it was that he became a little startled when he found that a warm, pleasant glow swept through him, setting his pulses a tingle every time the boss' private secretary appeared.

Even Horace remarked to a salesman that Barstow was "sweet" on Miss Mason." As days lengthened into weeks and weeks to months, with the propensity to glow and tingle at Enid's approach increasing, Barstow brought himself sternly to account, reminding himself that he had a gifted voice and that it was his duty to make something of his talent.

One day at the close of the noon rest period, Barstow was returning from the maestro who had just assured him that the thousand dollars he had saved would go far toward making him the singer he wanted to be, as he entered he overheard some of the office force talking in subdued tones about Miss Mason.

"A dirty shame, I calls it," Horace was saying, "for a decent sort like her to be hit amidships like that."

"Who? What?" inquired Barstow, joining the group. "Who's hit amidships?"

"Hello, Caroos," Horace greeted him, "It's Miss Mason. Some son-of-a-gun of a doc's gone and told her she's got to take a long rest 'count o' her eyes and she's all there is betwixt a crippled mother and starvation. Don't it beat the deuce?"

Barstow could scarcely believe what he heard. He had been with Miss Mason almost every night for months, now, yet she hadn't even mentioned eye trouble or hinted that there was any danger of her having to quit work. He tried to picture the office without her and a cloud seemed suddenly to obscure his vision at the thought.

During the remainder of the afternoon Barstow was torn with chaotic emotions. At closing time, Barstow waited as usual for Enid. When she came along there was nothing in her bearing to indicate that she had so recently received bad news.

"Enid!" he exclaimed when they were alone. "Is it true—this thing about your eyes?"

"The doctor's command to quit work?" she answered simply. "Guess it is, Caroos."

"But—how—are you able financially to quit the earning game?"

He hated himself for putting things so boldly, but he felt somehow that he had to know.

"Why, of course I'm not," she laughed. "No one is unless he's a millionaire? But I've got sense enough, I hope, to quit before I'm blinded for life. Oh, there'll be a way out—there always is. I only worry about Mumsie. Of course she'll have to know I'm leaving Critchlow's, but I wish I didn't have to tell her the truth."

Barstow's battle with himself that night lasted well into the wee small hours. Just before dawn the Rubicon of his decision had been passed. He was glad—glad that no one at Critchlow's knew of his ambition to become a great singer. There was other work in the world quite as noble, he decided.

The second mail next day brought to Miss Mason's desk a draft for $1,000, together with a typewritten slip stating that she was to use the money to live on during her enforced rest. Of course she thought it came from the head of the company, in consideration of her long and faithful service and in anticipation of her coming idleness. But when Critchlow denied flatly any knowledge of the draft, Enid was puzzled.

That night when Donald Barstow again met her in the lobby his face lacked its usually merry smile. But his eyes were shining with tenderness.

"Won't you telephone your mother you'll be a bit late and come with me for a cup of coffee?" he asked beseechingly. "I have something very important to say to you."

The moment the waiter left them alone in a secluded booth of the restaurant, Barstow asked Enid to marry him.

"I'm making $75 a week," he told her earnestly. "And I've just been accepted by the Unity Church as soloist. Three of us can live nicely on what I'll be making and if you'll only say yes, you will be able to give that Mumsie of yours a regular excuse for leaving Critchlow."

Barstow had been so taken up with what he wanted to accomplish that he hadn't realized he was proposing to a girl without an ounce of sentiment or romance in the whole transaction. Presently he saw that something was wrong, for Enid's eyes were filled with tears. She looked across the table and asked him wistfully, "Are you asking me to marry you because you feel sorry for me, Donald?"

"Oh, my dear—no!" he blazed. "What made you think that? Why I've been in love with you since the day I first came to Critchlow's, I've wanted this long time to ask you to marry me but I kept feeling that I ought to wait until I had another increase in salary. This morning I decided I couldn't wait another day so I went out this noon and signed up with Unity. That place was offered me a while ago, but I thought then I might have other plans. Can it be that—you don't care for me, Enid?"

"Foolish question number two," Enid answered, smiling through tear-wet lashes, "I've loved you since the day I heard you sing 'O Sole Mio' at the employees benefit. Your voice is the most beautiful thing in the world. Why don't you study and go in for a career, Don?"

"O-h—it takes too much time and too much money," he answered, with a sigh. "I'd much rather spend mine on a wife and a home. Is it going to be yes, Enid?"

"It is going to be just that, Don, but first I'm going to let you into a little secret. Somebody, evidently one of God's own noblemen, sent me a thousand dollars yesterday. We'll be married, live quietly on what you make and you can take that thousand for lessons. Oh Don! Won't that be perfectly splendid? Maybe some day you'll be a sure 'nuff Caroos."

STAGE AND SCREEN

successful teams in pictures. Both players have real talent, and an enormous following which will trail them to the boxoffice.

The first of the series will go into production as soon as Constance returns from abroad, where she is starring in a film being made at the Rex Ingram studios at Nice.

Director Victor Fleming has returned from Taos, New Mexico, where he has been selecting locations for "Wolf Song." "Wolf Song" has numerous sequences which will be filmed in Taos, one of the oldest Mexican towns on the continent. Gary Cooper and Lupe Velez are the stars.

Russell Simpson is back from location with Marie Prevost and Ben Lyon. They have been making "The Exodus" in Utah and Idaho. It is a story of the Mormons, and some of the scenes were filmed in the great Mormon metropolis, Salt Lake City.

Gardner James was operated upon for appendicitis. Gardner has been working in "Braid" with Ramon Novarro, and he just completed "Singapore Mutiny," in which Estelle Taylor stars.

Some weeks ago this column told you of the wonderful lion farm conducted by the dapper Frenchman, Charlie Gay, and how he strolled through his acres of lions, riding this one, slapping the next one playfully in the face, putting his head in another's mouth and so on. This farm, with its 150 kings of beasts supplies lions for both the movies and various zoos.

Well, some time ago Monsieur Gay left for a brief European visit, leaving his pets in charge of keepers.

Three of them, the largest on the Pacific Coast, broke loose the other day. One was safely corralled, but before the other two were shot dead by the keepers and a police reinforcement, one man was severely clawed, and several others driven into the lions' own cages by the infuriated beasts. One lion sank its fangs an inch deep into the rail before the cage in an effort to reach its human quarry. So, you see, it isn't as safe as it looks to play in a picture which has lions in its cast.

Marie Wells, musical comedy star, has been signed for one of the "Desert Song" roles by Warner Brothers. Miss Wells was taken from the cast of the local revival of "Lombardi, Ltd." She has appeared in "No, No, Nanette," "The Merry Widow" and other hits. Otto Hoffman and Edward Martindel are other additions. This Warner Vitaphone production will be the very first to bring an operetta to the screen. All the beauty of the melodies will be preserved through Vitaphone.

So far 150 Lilliputians have been assembled for "The Mysterious Island." They range in age from 16 to 60 and in height from 27 inches to 3 feet 6 inches. Europe, Asia, Africa and America are represented in the group. A third of them claim Hollywood as their more or less permanent home. In addition to these there are a number of little folk under 4 feet 6 in height, and a large group of Filipinos, all of whom are under 5 feet.

MISFORTUNES DRIVE MERCHANT TO SUICIDE

Thought to have become despondent because of financial losses, A. J. Schwartz, 40, store owner of Bruceton, hanged himself yesterday on the rear porch of his store. He was found, suspended by wire, by Justice of the Peace J. M. O'Rourke. Three days ago he had told customers he intended to end his life. O'Rourke told deputy coroners. Schwartz recently had committed his wife to an insane asylum and his children to an orphanage.

WILMERDING MINER KILLED BY COAL CAR

Thomas Morris, 26, a coal miner, of South Wilmerding, was crushed to death by a coal car in the mine of the McKeesport Coal and Coke Company, near Wilmerding, yesterday, according to the coroner's report.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

EAGER, restless, ambitious America has one great, dominating passion —it wants to know! Whatever happens—wherever it happens—America must know, and know at once.

Everything great, everything vital—it must know, but it must know lesser things too. It must know if a Balkan king slips from his tottering throne, but it must also know what took place yesterday in its home town—who died, who was married—all the thousand and one things that go to make up the budget of a day's news. Everything that happens, everything that is done or said or thought, must be known.

This eager, healthy curiosity, this desire to know, this eternal search for new, full light on every subject, dominates America. It has made America what it is. It developed America—discovered its gold and coal and oil—harnessed its electricity—founded its cities and schools—made its farms—built its factories.

And it gave America its newspapers.

No other nation demands so much of its newspapers as America; in no other country has this demand been met so fully and so admirably. No other country calls for and supports so vast a news-supplying service as does young, eager America.

No service less than that of the Hearst Newspapers would satisfy it, and they succeed in satisfying it only because their immense news-gathering service is made up of the brightest and ablest men obtainable, stationed in every part of the globe.

Hearst Newspapers are the greatest carriers of the commodity of news the world has ever seen. They comb the world for news—unceasingly, unfailingly—that in eighteen great cities giant presses may speed it out to the more than twenty million readers of Hearst Newspapers who "want to know"—and know at once.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Rumors of Engagements Begin to Follow Soon After Debutantes Have Made Bows to Society

JUST as soon as girls have made their formal bows to the social world of grownups, we begin to hear rumors of engagements, and before long there comes an announcement and then a wedding. Once in a long, long while some little deb-to-be just can't wait to "come out" before becoming a member of the adult society group, and skips her debut.

You know Sarah Gillespie Hamilton, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Reed Hamilton, of Woodland road, was to have come out this fall, but just a little while ago, much to the surprise of the social world, her mother announced her engagement to Dr. George Fowler Wheeling, son of Dr. William Stuart Wheeling, of Windber, Pa. And their wedding, I've heard, will take place this fall.

One of last year's debutantes is betrothed now. The Raymond Babcocks announce the engagement of their sister, Marjorie Babcock, to James McKay, son of the J. Albert McKays, of "Oakhill," Amberson avenue.

One of Marjorie's sister debs is to wed, too. Marie Boggs McBride's engagement to Van Lear Perry Shriver, Jr., son of the Van Lear Perry Shrivers, of Sewickley, was announced recently, don't you recall? In several seasons all the buds of last year, I dare say, will be young matrons.

EVEN though so far there are only 16 buds, it looks as though there were going to be ever so much "debutantish" affairs. There are a number of all-deb affairs planned, too.

I've just heard that Miss Ethel and Miss Abby Christy, of Frederick avenue, Sewickley, will give a luncheon in the Allegheny Country Club on Wednesday, October 10. And all the debutantes will be there.

CATHEDRAL weddings are always impressive ceremonies, don't you agree? And on Tuesday morning, October 9, there will be one in St. Paul's Cathedral. You probably have guessed I'm referring to the wedding of Miss Katherine Mary Reilly, daughter of the Eugene S. Reillys, of Wightman street, and B. Meredith Reid, son of Judge and Mrs. Ambrose B. Reid.

Katherine has made known her bridal party. Ursula Reilly will be her sister's maid of honor and Miss Ursula Hart and another sister, Camilla Reilly, will be bridesmaids.

Alfred D. Reid will be his brother's best man, and Loeffler Hopkins, of Atlanta, Ga.; Gerald Phillamore, of Montreal, Canada; P. C. Lauinger, Dr. Louis Ignelzie and John C. Reilly, Aloysius Reilly, brothers of the bride; H. Allen Machesney, Jr., and Alwin Oliver, all of Pittsburgh, will be the ushers.

JUST now there's a small colony of Pittsburgh folks in New York on any of these autumn days.

The Thruston Wrights have been at the Berkshire, and the junior Judson J. Brooks and Mrs. George S. Oliver have been at the Ambassador.

THE marriage of Miss Elizabeth Farquhar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome G. Farquhar, of Beechwood boulevard, and Donald MacMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dugald MacMillan, of New Britain, Conn., wos solemnized Saturday in the Little Church Around the Corner, New York. The bride wore an ensemble of autumn brown transparent velvet and lace with hat to match, and her corsage was of Cattleya orchids. Standish Bradford, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., was best man. A breakfast in the Hotel Vanderbilt followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. MacMillan have left for a Southern trip and after November 1 will be at home in New Britain.

* * *

MRS. BENJAMIN R. B. TOWNSEND and her niece, Barbara Irwin, accompanied by Miss Martha Porter, left on Saturday to motor to Warren, Va., where Barbara will attend school. Mrs. Townsend and Miss Porter spent the week-end in Washington.

THERE will be bridge luncheons on October 2, 16 and 30 for members of the Pittsburgh Country Club and their friends, according to the bulletin of events. Club dinners are scheduled for every Thursday and Saturday night, with dancing to follow the Saturday night dinners. A buffet supper will be held each Sunday night, and a stag golf dinner will be held October 10. The Halloween dance is set for October 31.

* * *

MISS ELLEN HARRIS, of Harris terrace, Crafton, has announced the engagement of her sister, Miss Mary Genevieve Harris, to John Taylor Wortz, of Connellsville. A late fall wedding is planned. Miss Harris is a sister of the late Senator John P. Harris and of Senator Frank J. Harris and Dennis A. Harris.

* * *

A CARD party for the benefit of St. Ann's Day Nursery will be held tonight at the nursery, in Fernando street.

* * *

MISS ELIZABETH DAUGHERTY, of Callery street, and Miss Martha Arnold, of Aiken avenue, have returned home after spending the summer abroad.

* * *

THE Moredolphton Boosters will hold a get-together dinner Friday night at the Y. M. C. A., Third avenue and Wood street. Mrs. G. L. McNemry and Miss Ruth A. Zell are in charge of reservations. Camp motion pictures will be shown, and there will be a program of stunts.

$10,000 LOOT IN RIVER BANK

For several months following the theft of a registered mail package containing $13,000 from a mail car on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, between Pittsburgh and Arnold, on August 19, 1927, $10,000 of the money lay carefully hidden in the Allegheny River bank near Phillipstown, Pa.

Postoffice Inspector George V. Craighead and E. J. Gallagher, who returned yesterday from Buffalo, N. Y., where they arrested George F. Aberth, 28, a former substitute railway mail clerk, said the latter in confessing to the theft told of secreting the package above the high water mark along the river bank after he had abstracted $3,000 in $20 bills, later going back for the balance.

Many, many months the postoffice inspectors worked on the case and little suspicion was directed towards Aberth until after he resigned from the railway mail service on May 10. Purported evidence they obtained resulted in Aberth's arrest last Thursday. After strongly maintaining his innocence he was said to have broken down and admitted taking the package, being sent from the Federal Reserve Bank to a bank in Arnold, soon after the train left Pittsburgh.

Aberth, according to the inspectors, said he threw the package from the train near Red Bank, which was the end of his run, and after recovering it placed $10,000 of the money in the river bank. Inspector Craighead said proceedings would be instituted this week for the removal of Aberth to Pittsburgh for trial in the Federal Court. When arrested some of the alleged stolen money was said to have been found in his possession.

He was said to have used some of the stolen money to build a home in Buffalo. Since leaving the railway mail service he has been selling jewelry.

"HOW'S THE OLD ENGINE?"

Turn to Page 121 to the lesson on "How to Make Presidential Votes." Gov. Alfred E. "Call-Me-Al" Smith, when Engineer Arthur O'Hearn left the campaign train at his home and the end of his run, Jamestown, N. D., asked about the engine, the little woman and the baby. The arithmetic lesson today is, of course, that Mr. O'Hearn plus Mrs. O'Hearn equals two votes for Smith!

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

COMPLAINT here recently that some 20 minutes were required to furnish us with a minute-steak brings explanations from two correspondents, one a student of words, and the other a restaurateur. Both say that we have been led astray by improper pronunciation of "minute" when ordering a steak. To order a minute steak in a fashion which will avoid mistakes the customer should say: "I want a mi-nute steak," with a long "i" and with an equal accent on both syllables. Such a pronunciation, our correspondents say, will immediately reveal that the name of the steak has nothing of the time factor about it at all, but that the name indicates the size—or lack of size—of the steak.

WAITER HOW LARGE ARE YOUR MI-NUTE STAKES ?
VARIOUS SIZES SIR !

While not desiring to labor the point, but in order to clear up this problem it is well to set forth here that a chef assumes no obligation as to time in delivering a minute steak. His contract is fulfilled if the steak is small. Yet how many persons corrupt the adjective minute when ordering a steak? In a long experience among men who order such steaks we never have heard anyone say: "Mi-nute steak, please." Always, it seems here our friends have been ordering 60-second steaks, so to speak.

A gentleman in Homestead knows all there is to know on the subject because he is the boss of the restaurant, the cashier, and sometimes the chef. When not performing such jobs as these he takes a turn at "waiting on" the table. This gentleman seeks the prize offered for the solution of what will go down in history as the minute-steak crisis. Accordingly, the prize department has been instructed to send to the prize-winner a 2¼x3½ creampuff. It will be sent to "C," Homestead, Pa., as that is the only identification given in the prize-winning letter.

IN THE future prize-winners will have to submit self-addressed creampuff boxes so there will be no difficulties.

After a one-day trip, involving two nights on a train, and a day at a hotel, we began figuring up what our hat and handbag cost us in the way of parking. It brought to mind that while much civic effort is spent on the serious problem of parking automobiles, little thought is given to male hats and neuter handbags.

ON THE train the porter got 20 cents for carrying our bag from Berth No. 6, about the middle of the car, to the station platform. Ordinarily the porter would have got 25 cents, but we fined him a nickel because, in calling us, he used more than necessary vigor in shaking our mattress. (That's a diabolical way to arouse a man—shaking vigorously his mattress). In the station restaurant another dime for the hat and bag. In the hotel another dime for the bellboy who carried the bag to the room. At lunch time a dime for the hat. In the evening another dime for the same hat. About an hour after that, in giving up the room a few hours before train time, another bellboy got another dime for checking the bag. Two hours later what must be called Bellboy No. 85 got another dime for un-checking the hat.

In the lobby we deposited the bag at our feet when a friend approached and began talking. Conversation over, we started out for a cab. Immediately, the tipping clock rang up another dime for Bellboy No. 86. At the station a red-capped porter was frustrated by brute strength. That would have cost a quarter. The next morning, after the ride back home, another quarter went to the porter who shook the mattress in reasonable fashion—and not as if the car were on fire. Then in a restaurant for breakfast—the final dime for the bag and hat was deposited. How much for the hat and bag on a one-day trip? We figure it at $1.25. That is enough to park our automobile, which is much larger and takes up far more space and is far more valuable, for five days in a 25-cent parking lot.

ANY THING ELSE SIR ?
YES GET THIS $5 CHANGED INTO DIMES !

If we ever make another trip on a train we're going to wrap everything up in a bandanna handkerchief.

VANDALISM PROTESTS IGNORED, 1 CLAIMS

Charging that the Department of Public Safety is interested only "in the perpetuation of a political machine," H. C. Connelly, treasurer of the Williams Gauge Company, North Side, wrote to Council today to compalin about damage being done to that concern's property.

Connelly said that during the past three years 150 panes of glass have been broken by young men and boys throwing stones and playing baseball and football. Repeated complaints to the police department, he said, brought no results.

"From the action we get from the Public Safety Department," he wrote, "we are of the opinion that the department is solely and only interested in the perpetuation of a political machine."

His complaint was one of three received against the department by Council today. Another was from F. C. Bauer, North Side real estate dealer, who said the police had taken no action on his repeated complaints against hucksters and vendors operating along East Ohio street.

The third came from William A. Bond, manager of the P. H. Butler Company store at 4806 Second avenue. Bond charged that he is unable to get his supplies into his store because of parked automobiles. On September 21, he wrote, a truck bearing supplies was unable to get to the entrance of his store. While he and the driver attempted to reach some solution, a police patrol passed, the driver of which insisted that the truck be moved from the car track. Bond stated he explained to the driver that he was unable to get the truck within two blocks of the store.

"Move," was the advice given him by the patrol driver, Bond wrote.

Ross Twp. Airport Begun

A privately owned airport in Ross township, now under construction will be in operation within a few weeks as headquarters for four Pittsburgh aviation concerns, it was learned last night.

A tract of 164 acres has been obtained near the intersection of Babcock boulevard and Thompson Run road by the Gardner Aviation Service and the Aircraft and Airways of America, Inc., who will control the field.

The concern is to be capitalized at $450,000 and is to be known as the Pittsburgh Airport. The Gardner service will be moved from Rodgers field to the new port which also will be headquarters for the Aircraft and Airways concern, distributors of airplanes. The two companies will also conduct the Western Pennsylvania School for Aeronautics.

William H. Gardner, head of the Gardner Service, and F. LeMoyne Page, president of Aircraft and Airways, said the Government inspectors had given the field a second class rating.

Workmen today started to build a large all steel hanger.

TWO TIPSTAVES TAKE OATH

In line with the "speed up" program to dispose of the vast number of cases pending in Criminal Court, two new tipstaves were sworn in today. They are David Caughey, former county detective, of 5309 Keystone street, and Walter A. Baker, for 22 years a city policeman, of 5533 Kentucky avenue.

In addition to local jurists, three visiting judges are sitting in Criminal Court. J. Frank Graff, Armstrong county; Charles M. Culver, Bradford County, and Alonzo T. Searle, Wayne County.

Hanging Trousers Open Gas Jet; Owner Dies

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 1—(AP.)—Frank B. Bennett, of this city, a member of the teaching staff at Pennsylvania State College, was found lifeless at his home here yesterday, asphyxiated in a gas-filled bedroom. A pair of trousers was hanging over a gas jet, and it is believed the weight of the garments turned on the jet, causing Bennett's death.

NO WAR-WHOOP, FEATHERS AS INDIAN TRIBE ARRIVES

Another tribe of Indians arrived this morning for South Park—and no less than six childhood ideals "bit the dust" simultaneously, no less!

It was a long suppressed desire of a reporter to interview a Red Skin as an aboriginal. An Indian with plenty of whoopee and war paint in the Pennsylvania Station would be a real sensation, so with notebook, camera and pencil, the reporter hit the trail.

[Ed. Note—Not the sawdust kind.)

The scribe joined forces with Chief Eddie Big Beaver, Mrs. Celia Mud Head Big Beaver and two little Beavers. A pow wow with the Big Beavers disclosed that the invading tribe was friendly. It looked bad for a good story.

WAR-WHOOP MISSING

The train pulled in from St. Louis. It was just like any other train and not a war-whoop in sight! The passengers began to alight and with stealthy tread, the reporter trailed along.

"How!" should have been the greeting, according to the history books.

"Hello!" is the way it was done. What a disillusion—and how.

They didn't even rub noses! There wasn't even one little "whoopee!" Not a feather was in sight! There wasn't a bit of war paint—unless Grandma Good Cutting Medicine Weasel, 75-year-old keeper of the Red Horn wigwam or what have you, uses lipstick.

Oh, cruel awakening—four childhood ideals collapsed. Peter Red Horn, big chief of the tribe; Susan Weasel Short Face Red Horn, his squaw; Grandma Weasel, the chief's mother-in-law, or whatever an Indian calls his squaw's chief adviser, and four bright-eyed youngsters ranging in age from 7 months to 17 years, made their bow to Pittsburgh.

Paul B. Riis, director of county parks, extended the official city and county greeting together with an invitation for breakfast. Maybe there would be a story in this—picture this tribe squatting around on the floor of one of Pittsburgh's smart restaurants while harried waitresses, chefs and others scurried out for caribou steaks or grizzly bear chops!

BREAKFAST DISAPPOINTS

Mr. Riis, Indians and reporter led the way to the restaurant. Notebook poised. All ready, camera?

We're through with Indian love.

Never again will the scribe believe the teachings of our histories. The Red Skin of Buffalo Bill fame; the aborigine companions of Daniel Boone, George Washington, Fort Duquesne, Gen. Braddock and all the others, for whom Pittsburgh has named streets, is a fable.

"There ain't no such animal!"

There sat that "ferocious" tribe of Red Skins! They ordered bacon and eggs and the baby sat in a high-chair and cried for its milk bottle!

Find Man Fatally Shot

Mystery surrounds the fatal shooting of Paul Kaneta, 35, a coal miner, house 53, Mollenauer, who was found fatally wounded on a porch near his home last night. Kaneta died an hour later at St. Joseph's Hospital without regaining consciousness. The bullet had severed a blood vessel in his leg and he bled to death.

Mike Tebolt, 11, of house 140, told the officers that he heard a shot and saw a man stagger up the road and collapse. County Detective David Carlin and other officers found a gray felt hat, presumably the assailant's, and an empty bottle in a nearby alley.

The police questioned scores of residents in vain. They believe the shooting the result of a drinking bout.

BANISHED CLASS IN OUTDOOR MEETING

The Callender Bible Class of the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburgh, held outdoor services yesterday because church officials had barred them from using their usual Sunday school room. Doors of the Sunday school have been closed to the class because the members have voted to ignore the demands made upon the class by the church officials.

The trouble, raging for almost a year, arose over the teachings of Dr. T. Morton Sankey and he was removed by church officials. Members of the class refused to have any other teacher and would not listen to several teachers selected by the class. Finally the church board barred the class from using the Sunday School rooms as a meeting place.

Yesterday morning the members went to the church and found the edict of officials in force. They gathered outside the edifice and held a song service. A large number of relatives of class members who were attending other classes in the church, came outside for the song service.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS WILL MEET TOMORROW

County Commissioners will meet at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, according to announcement by Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong. E. V. Babcock, member of the board, returned Monday after a visit to the southern plants of the Babcock Lumber Company. During the trip he attended a convention of the National Hardwood Lumber Association in Memphis.

SLIPPERY ROCK BIOLOGY CLASS GETS 245 FROGS

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Oct. 1.—The science department of the Slipperk Rock Teachers' College has just received from Oshkosh, Wis., 245 live frogs, for use in the classes in biology. The frogs were shipped in a single box, filled with moss, and were in a lively condition when received. They will be used for dissecing purposes in the study of biology.

200 HIT GLORY BARN TRAIL; HEALING TESTIMONY GIVEN

Evangelist John Sproul held his first services in the completed West Carson street Glory Barn yesterday, addressing two crowds of approximately 5,000 persons each at afternoon and evening gatherings.

More than 200 persons "hit the trail" at the services and a dozen others testified that faith had brought them relief from physical ills.

Speaking on "Jesus Manifesting Himself," the Evangelist denounced modernism and the growing trend of theologians to renounce the Bible.

At the evening service he spoke on "Fallen Angels—A Lesson to Fallen Men." A large delegation of followers from McKeesport was present last night.

Prof. Floyd Johnson of the Paul Rader Tabernacle in Chicago has arrived to take charge of the music at the barn. Last night he had 100 singers organized into a choir. He hopes to increase this number to 1,000 voices. This choir is in addition to the seven Negro gospel singers who have been singing at each service.

At the service last night Mr. Sproul declared repeatedly that he believed the Bible from cover to cover and he defended divine healing, declaring it the fundamental basis of many religions which object to it today.

An attempt has been made to prevent broadcasting of his sermons in the Glory Barn, West Carson street, the Rev. Mr. Sproul announced today.

The Federal Radio Commission was told in the protest that "Pittsburgh already is over-radioed" and that the addition of a station would seriously tie up ethereal traffic.

He expects, however, to be on the air within two weeks, Sproul said. A wave length is to be assigned to the Glory Barn, and adjustments are being made to the transmitting apparatus.

Will Rogers Says

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 1.

Saw that polo game Saturday in New York. That was the greatest game ever played; the best men and the best horses in the whole two Americas. Don't miss the next one Wednesday, no matter where you have to come from.

Al made one great mistake in his prohibition speech Saturday night. He said, "We can't expect anything from the Republicans.'

Well, I dont' know how we could possibly expect more than we have, unless a man has unlimited expectations, but Herb won't answer. He is pulling a Coolidge and getting the Democrats' goat.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Beatrice Is Discontented With Married Life and Wants a Divorce

DIANA made no answer, looking in a tired way at her hands. Perhaps it was true; at least it seemed to work out for Ann, while Beatrice and herself found only misery through trying to play fair.

"You're leaving soon, Bea?" she asked finally.

"I'm going abroad. It will be three or four weeks. I'll go to Paris, I suppose—bring suit there. It's the best way; hurry it up." She added, slowly and distinctly: "I'll stay there till my baby is born."

Diana jumped up, flung her arms about the other girl, held her in a tender, half-frightened embrace. "You mean that, Bea? But—but your baby must be born at home. Can't you see? Change everything—Norm will be different—you'll see! It's wonderful, Bea!"

"No." Beatrice rose to go, her listless melancholy untouched by Diana's excitement. "I'll not try to hold him that way. He doesn't suspect—you won't mention this, Di? But of course not. No, I'll go through with this as I've planned. And I've got to hurry now; if he comes and finds me gone there'll be another scene. It's—well, a little awful. Don't bother to come with me; I left the car down the street."

This, Diana knew, was a lie. Beatrice no longer drove the car which had been Norman's wedding present, since it added to his mistrust of her. From the window Diana watched young Mrs. Gregory walking sadly along the drive—watched until tears washed the picture away.

Beatrice was climbing the hill when she met Benny Black. It was the first time they had met since the camping trip and each was surprised at the change in the other. Beatrice so solemn, so burdened with misery; Benny looking years older, rather white, with new lines about his lips, the jauntiness gone from his shoulders.

In a flash of intuition their hands met, clung together for an understanding moment. He said: "You haven't been to see us."

"I don't go out much. Well—you see—"

"Of course. But old friends—like to drop in some evening. Norm and I were close—lived in the same frat house in the good old days." He sighed and looked up to see her eyes brimming.

"There, Bea"— He put a hand under her elbow, turned about and began to walk up the hill with her. "Is it anything I can help?"

"I'm afraid not, Benny, thanks."

"We all have our little—er—troubles. But, say—I'm sorry for this. Sure there's nothing I can do? I'm going"—he went on somewhat at random, "to 'phone one evening. Ask Norm and you to dinner at the club. Just us three," he added hastily. "Like to see you both again. Been along time"— His voice trailed off and there was silence.

"I just came from Diana," Beatrice remarked awkwardly.

"Yes?" His tone was strained.

"She's wonderful, Benny. So fine—no one finer!"

Another silence. Then he said quietly: "I know that now."

She told him goodby just out of sight of the stucco house, and knew as she glanced backward that he understood why she had done this. Norman suspicious of the least courtesy shown his wife by another man! Stooping she believed at times, to questioning the servants, setting them to spy on her!

But it soon would be over. Oddly enough, the thought brought her comfort. She would take up a new life, make something of it, however lonely it might be when deprived of the love she bore her husband—or the man he once had been. And it would not be a vain life—not entirely lonely after a little time. A small son! A tiny creature who would call her "Mother!" Existence held compensations, after all; she could not be wholly unhappy with this glorious secret held in her heart.

Weeks back Norman had moved across the hall into the guest room, and now Beatrice entered shared and locked the door. With a great deal of caution she recovered a key hidden under the edge of a rug and opened a drawer, bending over it with a brightness, a quick ecstasy in her face. Tiny garments in the drawer: minute dresses, all of sheerest white, edged with lace. Every one fashioned by the hands which now caressed them—hands no longer listless, weary of living.

"Little son!" crooned the girl. "Oh, little son!"

It was about this time that Diana invaded the library and found Daddy Rand hidden behind a newspaper. "Can the King," she demanded, "keep a secret?"

"Best of all the King's tricks!" Seymour Rand put down the paper, smiling as his daughter climbed into his lap.

"Once upon a time," she began, "the little Princess grew very, very tired of the things in her father's kingdom. For no reason at all, you see, excepting that maybe the birds sang too gaily and the sun shone too brightly and the leaves were too green.

"So the Princess thought and thought, and decided she wished to journey to far lands. And she besought his majesty, her father, the King, to send her to Paris. And his majesty said — what did he say, Daddy?"

"You wish to go to Paris, Diana?"

"Yes, please, Daddy. Beatrice is going in a month."

Seymour Rand looked at her a long time, a shadow in his eyes. But he kissed her, smiled gently. "Very well, dear."

CHAPTER XXV.

ANN was dressing for the evening. First she slicked back her hair, pasted it so close to her head that every curl lay flat. A bizarre coiffure, daring, ultra-modish, adding years to her appearance. And when she hung long emerald drops at her ears her face took on a knowing look, transforming her completely from the sweet, wistful creature she once had been.

Her gown was the color of the emeralds, a whimsical length of crepe twisted by Parisian fingers into something which suggested, rather than accomplished, a garment — one which banished any hint of girlishness and conferred instead the last word in sophistication.

Ann used the powder puff lavishly, employing it to blot out the little lines of ill-humor beginning to trace themselves in her cheeks, about her chin. And she was thus engaged when the door opened softly and her mother stood at her side.

"Well, my little one! And how grown-up we're getting to be!" Hanna's laugh was mocking as her eyes seized upon the gown.

Without looking around, Ann snarled: "Get out!" But the woman only laughed again, less pleasantly than before, and seated herself near by.

"Not so fast, my dear. Presently, however—presently."

A flicker of interest crossed the laboriously made-up little face, and Ann demanded information. "What do you mean by that? Don't tell me you're really getting out of this!"

"But I do tell you. Soon as you'll do the right thing by me. Going for good."

The girl, too, sat down, her petulance giving way to curiosity and a vague relief. "You're going, you say? But when — where? You're not just——"

"No, I'm not just talking." However unlovely their relationship was, Hanna showed hurt and offense. "I'm going to San Francisco."

"No! Well, of course I'll miss you, darling. But—— When did you say—that is——"

"Oh, don't hedge, Ann. I know you'll be delighted to see the last of me, and I've had enough of you for the rest of my life. Ingratitude! But it's what I might have expected. I'm going as soon as you give me money for railway fare and new clothes. I'll want those. And you needn't look like a thunder cloud. It's the last I'll ask from you."

Ann was thoughtful. If her mother were sincere—if she actually intended to get out for good—it would be worth a lot. Worth that pile of rings and the little jeweled watch over on the dressing table. Benny had held to his old-fashioned ideas in spite of pleadings and storms: she had no cash. Hanna out of the way, she could do certain things. . . . But why should she be going to San Francisco? Perhaps it was only a trick. . . .

"You'll have to tell me more," she began cannily.

"Why not? We understand each other, you and I. You remeember Price Langley? Though perhaps you were too young—"

"Not much, I wasn't. That old alligator! I remember his yelping 'blackmail' at you well enough."

Hanna went on, unperturbed. "You would. Yes, you would remember that. . . . He married a chit after his first wife died, and now she is dead, too. He's all alone in the world."

"Well, for Pete's sake! And you're going to rescue him from loneliness?"

"I'm going to marry him."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, October 2

ALTHOUG adverse aspects are found among the planetary operations for the day, yet these are not particularly powerful. There may be petty annoyances and complexities, with restlessness and disputes rather than real dangers. However, those in employment should not court reprimand or inharmony, which might place their positions in jeopardy.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of petty annoyances and disagreeable situations contributed to by lack of control and amiability. There may be a tendency to restlessness and change and the employment may not be entirely happy. Be careful in this respect.

A child born on this day may be disposed to be restless and fond of change and may likewise be inclined to be irritable and quick of tongue and temper. It should be well disciplined in infancy, especially if required to go into employment.

Experience joined with common sense, to mortals is a providence.—MATTHEW GREEN.

October's here! The loveliest Pagan of them all
Nut-brown, glorious daughter of a tired world.
Bringing a dazzling, golden season to enthrall
The hearts of sun-wearied children—tired and worn.
Giving them new life to plod through the year
Feeding them the wine of hope to carry on—
Bringing them courage; chasing all their fear.
All hail, October! Loveliest Pagan of them all!

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

Two Fair Conspirators Play a Trick on Dicky Graham

MY little maid's face darkened with disappointment as I told her I could not spare her to go to the movies, and her lips began to tremble. Lillian averted a burst of tears just in time.

"It's because I need you to do some detective work for me, Katie," she said, carefully and tactfully eliminating me from the investigation of Jim's errand from Dicky which we suspected.

Jim's temperamental little wife winked back her tears and her face beamed. No movie in the world had a chance against that "allure" with my little maid.

"Sure! I do anything you vant," she said, and Lillian lowered her voice impressively.

"It's like this, Katie," she said. "You know that Mr. Graham knows that red-headed man in the shack."

Katie tossed her head.

"Who tell Meesis Graham dot first?" she demanded with unconscious impudence, for which just now we were in no position to reprove her.

"But I am sure Mr. Graham does not know the real character of the men," Lillian went on smoothly, "and as I have just received some information concerning them, there is something I must ask you to find out. You understand, do you not, that ordinarily I would not ask you to watch your husband when he is doing anything for Mr. Graham, but tonight it is absolutely necessary that I find out whether Mr. Graham has sent a message to the red-bearded man by Jim."

"Eeef eet anything dot Jeem mixed oop in," Katie asserted with a tinge of good-natured contempt for her husband's mentality which made my hands twitch to shake her. "I find eet out qveeck as leetle sheep shake hees tail."

Out of the corner of her eye Lillian flashed me an appreciative recognition of Katie's never-failing smile. Then she looked at the girl squarely.

"Here is the thing I wish to know," she said slowly and distinctly. "Tonight Jim came back from the station and drove directly up the hill."

"I know," Katie tossed her head. "Sooch a fool ting to do. I vatch heem und I see you go after heem."

"I thought he might have a message from Mr. Graham to the red-bearded man," Lillian went on, "but if he did, we gave him no opportunity to deliver it. Of course, if he has one he will try again to deliver it. Now if he goes out can you follow him and find out just what he does? Remember, I do not want to see the note or have you listen to the message if it is not written. I just want to be sure whether or not Jim talks to the red-bearded man or his comrade tonight."

Katie folded her arms truculently.

"Dot Jeem no get out of dees house tonight mitout me knowing eet," she declared, and Lillian smothered a laugh in a cough.

"All right, Katie," she said, "but do not let Jim know you have followed him. Another thing, I have cautioned Jim about bolting all the doors and windows tonight, and he is getting a friend of his to sleep here while Mr. Graham is gone. So when you go out after Jim be sure to lock the door after you and take the key with you. If you find that door bolted when you come back, come around to the side veranda door. I'll be watching there and slip you in. You understand everything, don't you?"

"Oh, sure, I feex. Don't you vorry your head, Meesis Underwood," she said grandly, and Lillian and I went on into the library, waiting only until we could lock the door behind us to let loose the laughter which we had stored up in our risibles while Katie was inflating her movie-fed ego.

"It's rather a low-down trick to play on the Dicky-bird," Lillian said when we had returned to sober consideration of the problem before us, "but I'd stake my life that one of these men in that shack is a devil. Your darling husband isn't exactly a fool so he must know the same thing. He probably has some good reason for consorting with one of them, but it isn't exactly clubby to keep us in the dark about it. But there's nothing more you can do, so if you feel inclined to play around with that code, go to it. I'll stay down here and let you know any developments in the direction of Jim."

Cleaning Sink Pipes

If a large lump of soda is kept in the sink and the water allowed to run over it the pipes will never become choked with grease.

HOW TO KEEP WELL by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U. S. Senator from New York

Ease Up! Beware of Nervous Strain

SOME of the facts of life are so self-evident that they are understood by everybody. But many otherwise sensible men deliberately disregard them. The other day we read of the death from acute indigestion of a well-known man only 47 years of age. His career was ended in the very prime of life.

DR. COPELAND

In a newspaper editorial I saw some wise comments on this untimely death. They are worth repeating and pondering:

"Acute indigestion is mere one symptom of nervous overstrain due to crowding too much work into too little time.

"The human machine ought not to wear out on the youthful side of fifty.

"Americans sometimes deride other peoples who take life more quietly. Yet, after all, the simple life has its compensations."

What's the use of hurrying as we do? Every life is very precious to all the members of a family circle, as well as to a host of friends. The early and unnecessary death of its members saddens the whole group.

There is great sadness, of course, over the death of one who has long labored in the vineyard. But we accept such a loss as being in the nature of things. On the other hand, we resent the death of a friend under 50. We count the years he might have continued with us, to promote our happiness and to serve humanity. In spite of natural vigor, the appearance of health and the conviction of strength, something snapped, and the friendly soul has gone to the mysterious bourne. We cannot understand why it should be so.

But even though we cannot solve the reasons for these things, we are foolish to overlook the fact that many deaths are the effect of causes which are easily determined. The pathetic thing in many instances, certainly, is that they are preventable.

Chief of such causes is overstrain. Whether it is a building, a bridge, or the body of a man, there are limits beyond which it is not safe to go.

I need not argue a minute to convince you of the truth of this statement. You know it is a fact. Everybody knows it.

Caution is the instinct of all animals. A rat never runs straight out from the gateway to its home. An elephant will not step onto a bridge until it has thoroughly tested its strength. Instinctively and invariably the brute animal exercises caution.

Why, then, does man, the king of animals, use so little common sense in dealing with the experiences of life? The effect of his higher training appears to blunt his sense of caution.

This is a pity, because it breeds a carelessness that leads to disaster. Surely we should not permit the thinking animal to be outdone by the beasts of the field!

Appetite cause us to take many a chance. The flavor of the food and its appeal to the palate cause us to overstrain the powers of digestion. The joy of work or the accomplishments of work cause us to overdo habitually. By that practice we lower our powers of digestion and are ready victims of overindulgance.

It does not pay to overwork or overworry.

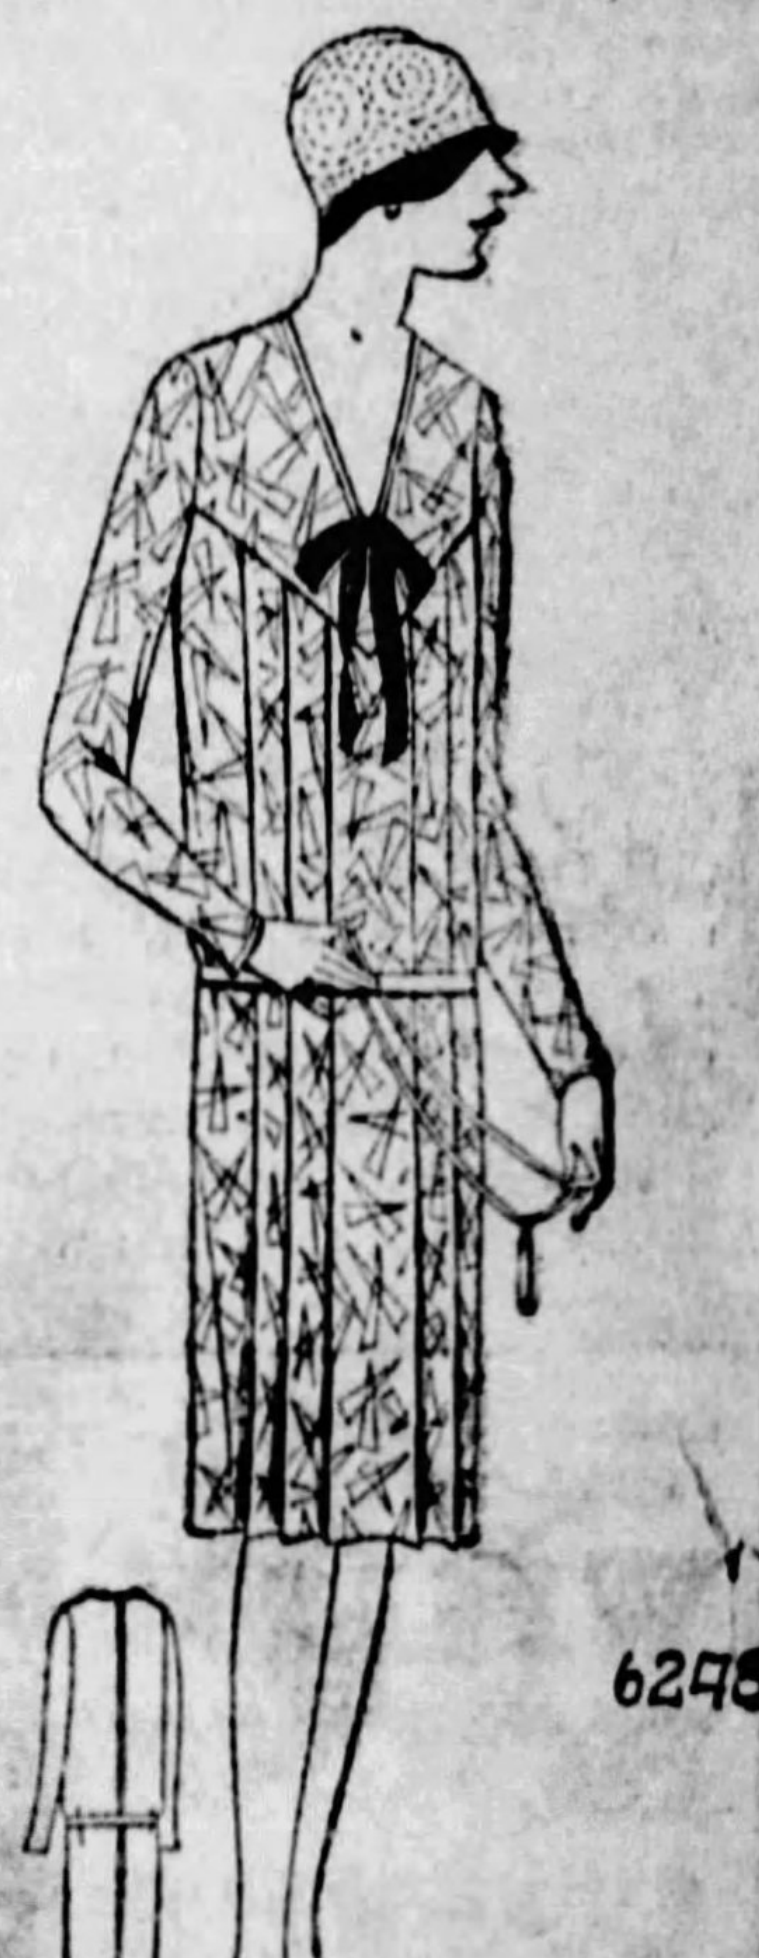
The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A SMART DAYTIME FROCK.

The pointed yoke and the plait formation are interesting features of this youthful model. A narrow straight belt holds the dress with slight blousing. The sleeve is close fitting and shaped over the wrist. Printed silk was used in this instance, with a ribbon bow at the neck and a suede belt for decoration. Kasha would be ideal for this model. It is also good in Canton crepe or in crepe de chine. The yoke and belt may be of contrasting material. A seasonable development would be in navy blue satin, with pipings of white, also a white belt.

The pattern for this model is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 38-inch size will require 4¼ yards of material, together with ¼ yard of contrasting material 35 inches wide. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 2⅛ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN by HELEN ROWLAND

PICKING A MATRIMONIAL CANDIDATE

FUNNY how a woman will elect a man to a life term as Husband without knowing half as much about him as she demands to know of a Presidential candidate before she will put her X beside his name on the ballot.

* * *

By the time the average woman is ready to give her vote to a candidate she has looked him up and knows all about his boyhood and early environment, whether he has been brought up on pancakes and "sacred Sabbaths" or on marmalade and philosophy, whether he wears a soft hat or a derby, and whether he has a small-town outlook or a metropolitan sophistication.

HELEN ROWLAND

Yet she will cheerfully MARRY a man without knowing whether he regards chicken dinner on Sunday as a moral principle and a Saturday night bath as a sacred rite, or whether a morning shower and a dose of bromide constitute his whole religion.

* * *

Before she votes for a White House candidate she knows all about his "past," and not even a little corner of his life is dark to her. She has studied his mother's picture and seen all his baby photographs in the newspaper, and knows more about his hobbies, temperament and weaknesses than he knows himself.

* * *

She knows whether he has a weakness for early rising and fresh trout or for late suppers and cigar smoke; whether or not he takes cream on his cereal, what brand of tobacco he favors and whether he is early or late for his appointments.

* * *

But when she elects a husband for a full term she doesn't even know how many blondes there have been in his life; whether he is HOME broken or an all-night prowler, or whether he is going to get up at 5 a. m. to close the windows, or to keep her awake until 1 a. m. while he practices on a saxophone. She knows nothing of his past or present, except what he chooses to TELL her.

* * *

Before a woman gives her support to a political candidate she insists on knowing what his policies are, whether he is wet or dry, whether he likes girl shows and detective stories or goes in for chamber music and Havelock Ellis, and whether he goes in for companionate marriage or the usual life sentence.

* * *

But she will indorse a matrimonial candidate without knowing the least thing about him, except that he has misty blue eyes, good shoulders, a job somewhere downtown and a cute red sport car.

* * *

Now, isn't that just like a woman! And yet when you come to think of it, we always have a choice of at least TWO prospects for President, while the choice of matrimonial candidates is SO limited! You have to take just what you can GET—and then pretend that it was just what you wanted!

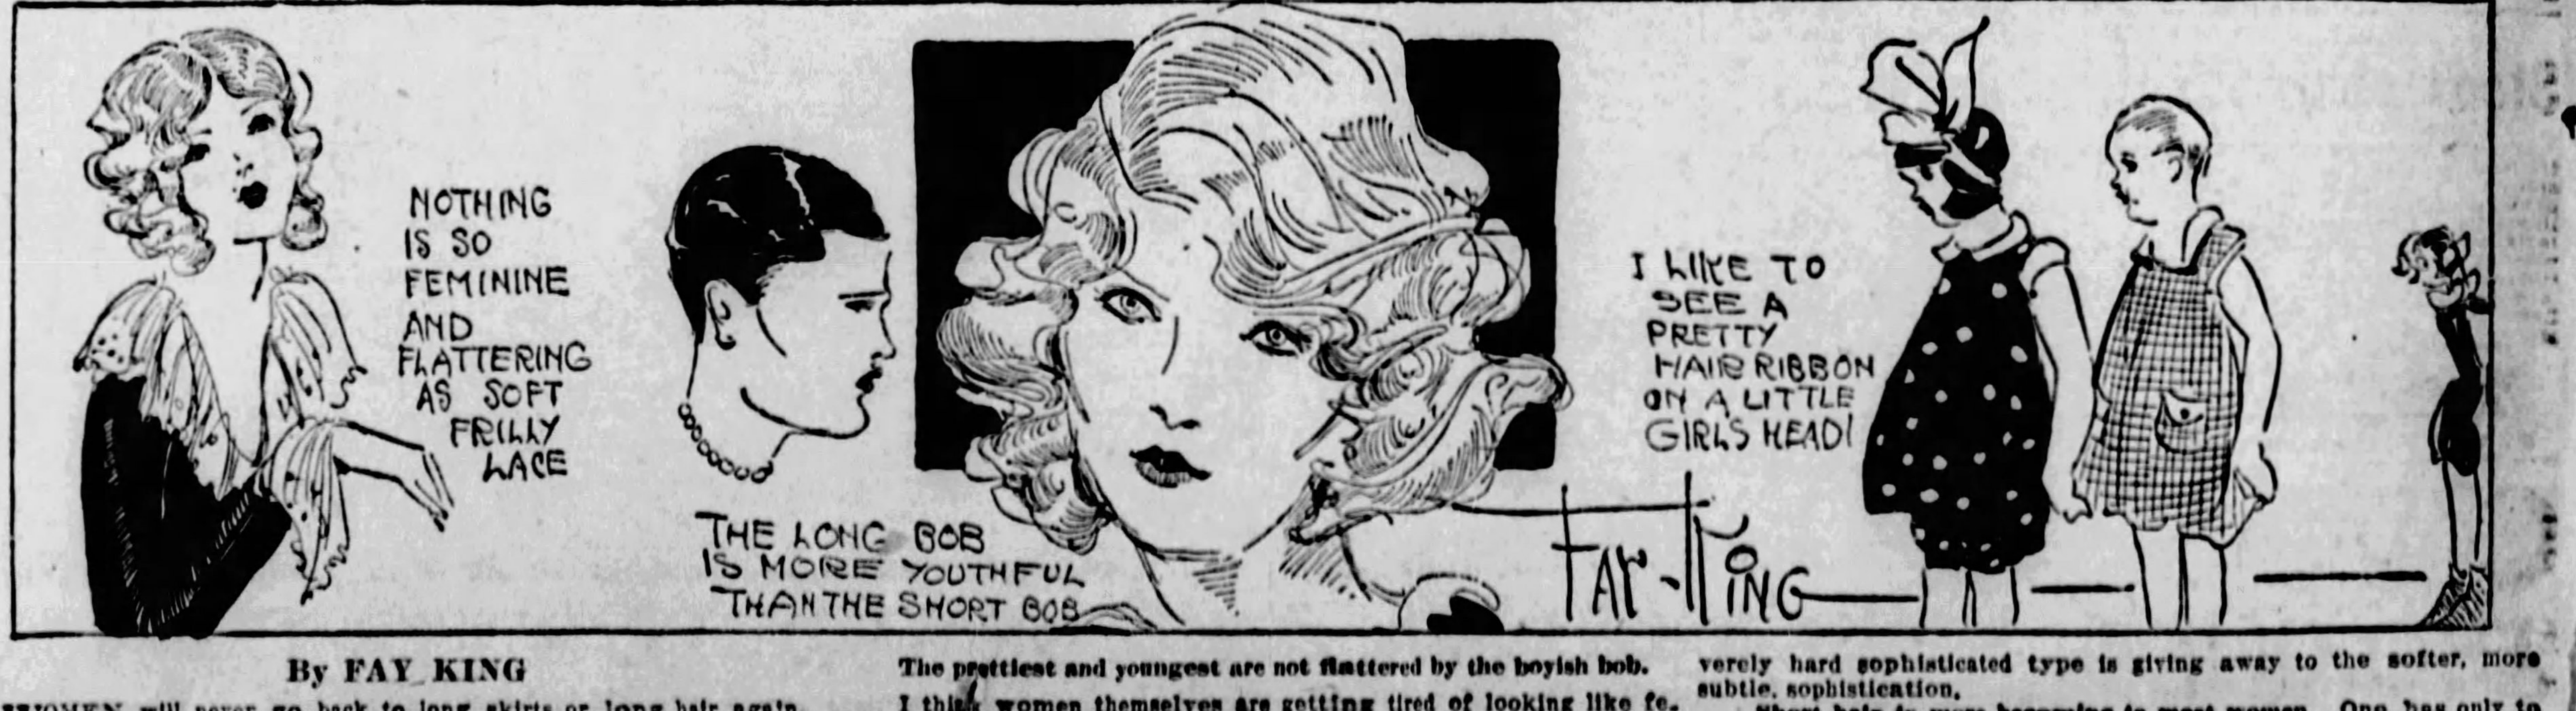
Fay King for Bobs, But Wavier Ones, as Being More Becoming



NOTHING IS SO FEMININE AND FLATTERING AS SOFT FRILLY LACE
THE LONG BOB IS MORE YOUTHFUL THAN THE SHORT BOB
I LIKE TO SEE A PRETTY HAIR RIBBON ON A LITTLE GIRL'S HEAD!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

WOMEN will never go back to long skirts or long hair again. But I do hope that a few more frills will be introduced. The styles have been too severe.

The prettiest and youngest are not flattered by the boyish bob.

I think women themselves are getting tired of looking like female impersonators who have just removed the blonde wig to take a final bow. You see the bobs worn longer and more wavy. The severely hard sophisticated type is giving away to the softer, more subtle, sophistication.

Short hair is more becoming to most women. One has only to refer to the old photographs of the reigning beauties of their day, and compare them with even the plain girl of today to prove that,

NDS TO BUILD EARST PLANT IN DETROIT

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—Construction of a new plant for the Detroit Times will be financed with a part of the proceeds of an issue of $2,500,000 Detroit Times (the Times Publishing Company) 6 per cent serial debentures which have been sold to Halsey, Stuart & Co. The new plant is made necessary by the rapid growth of the newspaper.

The Detroit Times has had one of the most remarkable growths in the history of American newspapers. Starting with a circulation of less than 26,000 daily and no Sunday edition, it has increased its daily evening net paid circulation to more than 300,000, with the exception of Saturday, and its Sunday circulation to more than 325,000.

According to independent reports, it has shown an average gain in daily circulation during the last five years more than twice as great as that shown by any other newspaper in Detroit.

The new building will be well-located in the metropolitan section of Detroit. It will be six stories high and will be used in entirety by the newspaper. The company will purchase a substantial amount of new equipment, and through the economies which it hopes to effect by use of the new building and equipment, should materially increase profits.

All of the outstanding capital stock of the Times Publishing Company, except directors' qualifying shares, is owned and controlled by William Randolph Hearst.

The publishing interests of Mr. Hearst consist of a chain of 28 newspapers serving 18 important cities, extending from coast to coast, and a group of seven nationally known magazines, which, together, comprise the largest publishing business in the world.

RADIO SHOW ARTISTS GO ON AIR TONIGHT

THIRD ANNUAL RADIO EXPOSITION OPEN TODAY

Pittsburgh's third annual radio show, bigger and better than ever, will be officially opened at 9 o'clock tonight with an address by A. A. Buehn, chairman of the executive committee of the Pittsburgh Radio Trade Association, which is sponsoring the exposition. The exhibition is being held at Duquesne Garden and will continue through Saturday.

The opening program is being broadcast by WCAE, with Alois Havrilla, recognized as America's greatest announcer, at the microphone. The inaugural festivities will be preceded by a program by Dewey Bergman and his orchestra, starting at 8 o'clock, and followed by a program by the De Luxe Petite Symphony dance orchestra and quartet.

Every available inch of space is occupied by exhibitors, there being more apparatus on display than at any previous local show. There are 150 exhibits in all, with more than 200 new creations in receiving sets and approximately 50 new types of loud speakers on exhibition.

The public was first admitted to the show this afternoon and the attendance was unusually large. The doors will open at 7 o'clock each night and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Attractive programs will feature each session, the De Luxe Petite Symphony dance orchestra entertaining Tuesday afternoon.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables at the local wholesale produce district was rather slow today. All fruit and vegetables were sold at about unchanged quotations.

The butter and egg markets were firm. Cheese was steady. No change was made in the quotations on these markets.

Car lot supplies were heavy, a total of 813 cars being on track. Included in the arrivals were 45 cars of apples, 9 cabbage, 15 cantaloupes, 2 celery, 1 grapefruits, 44 grapes, 1 lemons, 1 lettuce, 22 onions, 6 oranges, 9 peaches, 9 pears, 8 peppers, 16 potatoes, 19 sweet potatoes, 1 cauliflower, 5 prunes, 1 cranberries, 2 cucumbers and 2 turnips.

TWO POISON RUM DEATHS SPUR NEW YORK CLEAN-UP

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—A city-wide cleanup of speakeasies, planned at a secret meeting of police officials last week, was believed to have been given impetus today by the death over the week-end of two persons from alcoholic poisoning and the treatment in hospitals of 25 others. Police said the number was unusually large.

It was said at headquarters that wherever possible the source of the liquor was being traced. One of the dead and three of those treated at hospitals were women.

Six of the hospital patients were said to be in a coma from which physicians feared they might not recover. Most of the patients were picked up unconscious in the streets.

Margaret Malloy, 40, died in Bellevue Hospital without recovering consciousness after a policeman had found her on Fifty-fourth street.

NO PAID SOLICITORS USED IN SALVATIONISTS' APPEAL

The Salvation Army launched its annual home service fund campaign today with almost 1,500 volunteer women workers canvassing the county in an effort to raise the $116,500 required for budget needs during the next 12 months.

"The Salvation Army at the start of this campaign wishes to emphasize the fact that the men and women now soliciting funds in its behalf are giving their time and service freely," Col. Joseph Atkinson, divisional commander here, said today.

"Their only remuneration is the knowledge that they are engaging in a worthy cause. I wish I could let every person in Allegheny county know that we have no paid solicitors, that every penny donated comes to the army clear, and that no percentage goes to outsiders."

The campaign closes October 13 with Red Shield Day.

PLENTY of interesting games marked the playing of Sunday's soccer schedule. The big game at Harmarville attracted quite a big crowd, and Pittsburgh, with a whirlwind attack in the final half, scored two goals to defeat the home club, 3 to 2. This game was played in the Central League. Jimmy Morman played quite a part in the victory. That gives the Pittsburgh club its third straight victory and it is hard to see who is going to beat them in the Central League.

The Corinthian-German Sport Club game was a flop at Grove when the home team failed to appear at the scheduled time. The Germans were on deck, all right. Manager McKay, however, must have had trouble with his players, because it was 4 p. m. before they put in an appearance, and by that time the referee had forfeited the game to the Meisenberg outfit. A large crowd went home dissatisfied.

In the Chartiers Valley League, Curry and Bridgeville staged a real battle at Curry and it resulted in a scoreless tie. This game was transferred to Curry by the home team. Library defeated the Scholastics, 5 to 0. And Glendale went down before Cecil by a 4 goals-to-0 drubbing.

In the Monongahela League, Sunnyside and Monongahela City played a scoreless tie at Sunnyside. Dunlevy Juniors meeting Victory Hill, kept up their reputation by scoring at will and netting the ball four times.

The brilliant weather brought out large crowds, especially at the up-river games.

KOZELUH IS VICTOR OVER VIN RICHARDS

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Karel Kozeluh of Czechoslovakia, defeated Vincent Richards, champion of the United States, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1, on the hard turf courts yesterday.

In a doubles exhibition Kozeluh and Arthur Rudolph, Hartford, defeated Richards and George Agutter, Forest Hills, N. Y., 7-9, 7-5, 6-2.

Bridgeville 16-0 Victor

By TOM BIRKS.

A LARGE Sunday independent schedule found most of the leading contenders for championship honors copping their battles with ease. Bridgeville Firemen won a local derby from Canonsburg, 16 to 0. Springdale Amicus had soft picking with the Irwin Tornadoes, winning, 34 to 0. Coraopolis found a tartar in Glassports C. M. C., the score being 6-6.

The West View outfit had another soft game, defeating New Castle, 20 to 0. East Pittsburgh flashed its strength by stopping the Bloomfield Traders, 20 to 0. McKeesport Crimsons swamped the Boston Bulldogs, 12 to 0. McKeesport Olympics kicked in with their third straight victory, winning over the Hilltops by a 36-to-0 score.

Bridgeville's opening showing must have pleased the home fans. Coach Wilson has been unable to hold but one scrimmage, yet quite a number of intricate plays were pulled and the squad worked fine. The acquisition of Belack, Dolan and Hooks Leahy of the defunct C. M. C. outfit bolsters the Firemen's backfield. Concrete, one of the best ends in the district, will also be of great help to the outfit.

Bridgeville has a good defensive line. In fact, the Canonsburg Gunners never looked like scoring throughout the game. It was soon evident the Red and White from Canonsburg was going to have a tough time holding its line intact, Johnson, Simpson and Kasputis tearing off large gains in the first quarter But fumbles stopped two scoring chances, and when the quarter ended the Firemen had the ball on the 12-yard line.

The first score came in the second quarter, after Johnson had made a brilliant run around right end for a 60-yard gain. A couple of line plunges did not get anything and then Johnson stepped back and heaved a perfect pass to Simpson, who was over. Kasputis kicked the extra point.

The third quarter found Leahy and Dolan appearing in the backfield, with Concrete at end. Nothing happened in that period but then in the final period the Firemen netted two points on a queer decision by Referee Cowan. A Bridgeville lineman blocked a punt and fell on the ball over the goal line.

The second touchdown came with one minute to play, when heavy line plunging by Dolan and Leahy found the latter taking the ball over. Johnson kicked the extra point. Bridgeville appeared good, and back of the heavy line Coach Wilson will build a good backfield around Simpson, Johnson, Kasputis, Dolan, Leahy and Crum. The lineup:

Bridgeville—16.		Canonsburg—0.
Cherry	L. E.	W. Omnski
Fraitis	L. T.	Cook

RUTH FINISHES WITH 54

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Although in a batting slump through August and September, Babe Ruth finished the season only six homers short of his own world record of 60, established in 1927.

The Yankee slugger hit his fifty-fourth of the year off Vic Sorrell, of the Tigers, in the fifth inning Sunday with Cedric Durst on first base.

MEMPHIS GIRL CLAIMS ENDURANCE SWIM MARK

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Martha Hill, 18-year-old Memphis stenographer has laid claims to the world's swimming endurance record for women after completing a 61-hour continuous swim in a pool here. Miss Hill entered the water at 6:10 a. m. Thursday, and left it at 10:10 o'clock Saturday night after judges told her she had bettered by one hour the unofficial record set September 15 by Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston at Coney Island, New York.

12 RULES FOR SUCCESS

by GENE TUNNEY

RETIRED HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

NO. VII.—THE BOON OF FRIENDSHIP.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON said no man is useless so long as he has a friend. Another has said that a friend is one who knows all about you and still believes in you.

Several ingredients enter into the genius of friendship which admit of no variation or contortion. First there is a comradeship—not that you have to agree with everything your friend may do, but a general fitting into each other's likes and dislikes without dissension or criticism. Bickering, faultfinding, ridicule, depreciation never make for the spirit of friendship. You must get the viewpoint of your friend and find its value.

Second, there is admiration—that is to say, a clear discernment of the substantial manly qualities and square dealing of your friend as the genius of his character and aim. These go to make up his personality. When you believe in his honesty and integrity—even though you cannot approve of his idiosyncracies—you have found the basis of friendship.

NO ROOM FOR JEALOUSY

There can be no friendship where jealousy and suspicion exist, therefore you must always have faith, which is the basic element of all life. You must believe in him. According to the faith you possess toward your comrade life will contract or expand.

Once again, friendship calls for an unselfish disposition and if you must always be considered first in everything then friendship has a shallow rootage.

Friendship is the most satisfactory connection in life. No man can go very far with strength and courage if he goes alone through the struggle of life. There never was constituted a human heart that did not at some time, in some long and yearning hour, long for sympathy. Thousands of transitory friends—acquaintances—meet us along the crowded thoroughfares of life, but when it comes to trying their durability how many fail us!

No man can have friends unless he is friendly and reciprocal. Friendship means one who will reprove you to your face, not behind your back. It means one who will come to your defense no matter what is the cost. Friendship means a devotion to your interests, not for what they can get out of you, but for the investment of helpfulness and cheer they can make.

Read the story of Dickens' Sidney Carton and get at the real genius of friendship

THANKS FRIENDS

It may seem a strange statement, but it is nevertheless true, that in the advancement of my profession I have formed friendships that abide. They were mine when I was struggling for a place. They encouraged, inspired, counseled me. Sometimes it was blunt and crude, oftentimes almost cruel, but it was genuine, with my best interests always in mind. For these friends I have only the deepest gratitude and the most lasting appreciation.

A man can be a boxer and never surrender one noble thought, one kindly act, one word of helpful advice.

To the friends who have helped me become what I am, may this brief word touch their hearts, with my assurance that they will always have a place in my heart.

Cards Offered Stadium for Practice

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(INS.)—Miller Huggins today got in touch with Manager McKechnie, of the pennant-winning Cardinals, and offered them the use of the Yankee Stadium for practice during the three afternoons preceding the opening of the world series on Thursday.

The Yankees will practice daily from 11 until 2 and the field will be turned over to the Cardinals immediately after for their use throughout the afternoon.

The Yanks arrived here this morning from Detroit.

YOUNGWOOD WINS

"Amoco-Gas Gives Best All-Around Performance -Lowest Cost Per Mile" in Oakland and Pontiac

These well-known Oakland and Pontiac distributors--interested in the performance of the cars they sell--decided that the only logical method of discovering the best motor fuel on the market was to make thorough tests themselves. They found the same as have tens of thousands of car-owners--that AMOCO-GAS gives best all-around performance and lowest cost per mile. Whatever car you're driving, it, too, deserves AMOCO-GAS.

Gentlemen:

We are interested in the performance of Oaklands and Pontiacs, not only when they leave our showroom but long afterwards. That's part of the service we're so proud of.

Realising that motor fuel has great bearing upon the performance and life of even the best cars, we recently made thorough, exhaustive tests on the gasoline and motor fuels sold in the Pittsburgh district. You may be interested in the results because they vitally concern your product, Amoco-Gas.

These tests disclosed the following:

Product giving best all-around performance - - - - Amoco-Gas
Product giving lowest operating cost per mile - - Amoco Gas

As a result of this we are using Amoco-Gas exclusively ourselves and recommending it highly to every buyer of either a new or used car.

CARDS CONFIDENT OF WINNING

CLOSING DRAB IN MAJORS

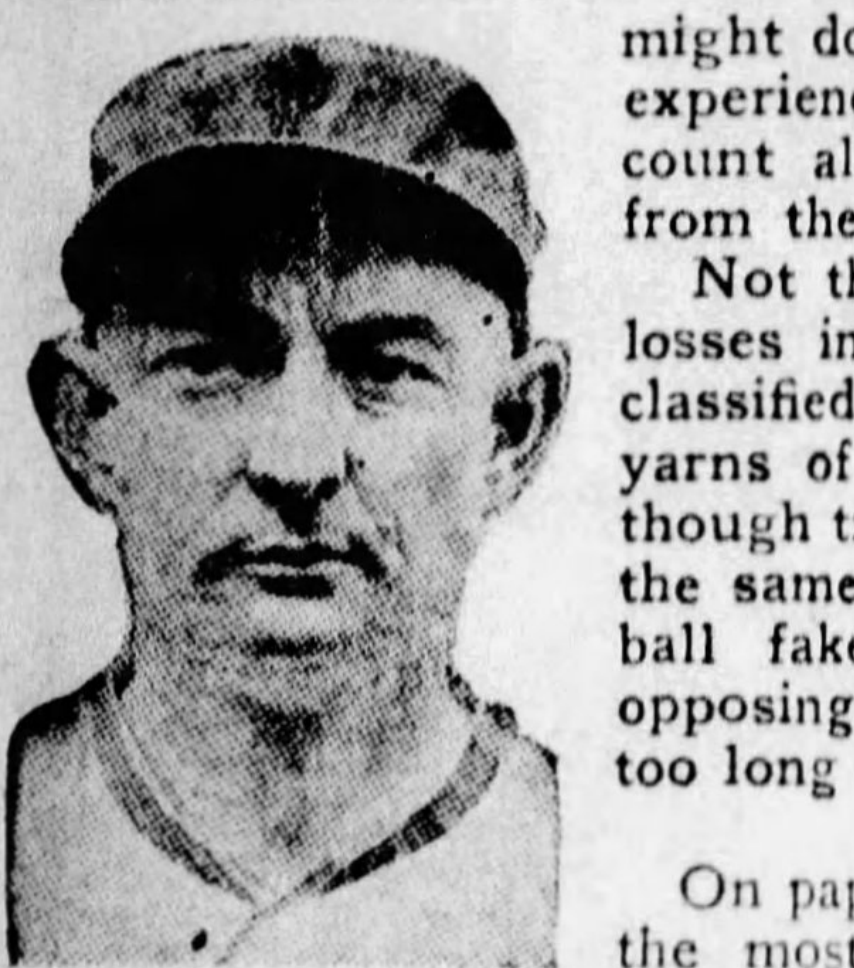
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Cards Face Danger of Overconfidence Due to Reports of Yankees' Crippled State—Huggmen Great Club and Always Dangerous in Crisis—Richards Saves Country From Barren Tennis Year.

IN HIS endeavors between now and Thursday afternoon to get his National League pennant winners in the proper mental attitude for the world series, Manager Bill McKechnie might do well to follow the custom of experienced football leaders and discount all stories of weakness coming from the other side.



Bill McKechnie

Not that the reports of injuries and losses in the Yankee ranks are to be classified with the time-honored bear yarns of the gridiron sport, but, even though true in the main, they may have the same effect as that for which football fakes are intended—making the opposing team too short on caution and too long on confidence.

On paper, the Hugmen may look like the most seriously crippled club that ever went into a post-season titular struggle. Barring the possibility of miraculous recoveries, they will be without the services of their best pitcher, Herb Pennock; another valuable hurler, Wilcy Moore, and a star outfielder, Earl Combs.

And even the loss of that trio does not fully cover the casualty list, as Babe Ruth, Tony Lazzeri, Mark Koenig and Joe Dugan have been suffering from injuries that may prevent them from being in their best form for the big battles.

McKECHNIE'S most important task will be to keep his players from taking too much for granted on that account. Any notion on the part of the Cards that they were going to meet a weakened and inferior opponent would be certain to breed over-confidence, and there is nothing that can bring disaster to a ball club more quickly or more surely than a mental trend toward the belief that the enemy is not to be feared.

Miller Huggins

IT WOULD be foolish, possibly fatal, to hold the Yanks cheap under any conditions. None but a great ball club could have won this year's American League pennant as they did in their crippled state against the stiff opposition offered by Connie Mack's fighters in the closing stages of the race. They were weakened and were said to have only two pitchers while the Athletics had six when the rival teams met in a critical series three weeks ago, a series on which the flag appeared to be hinging, but they were good enough to win three of the four games. A real champion club rises to the heights in a crisis, and that's what the New Yorkers may do again in the world series. If the Cards can be made to play as hard and as carefully as they might be expected to do if they knew that they were meeting the Yanks at the latter's best, they will look like the better bet for victory in the series, but if they underestimate what they are going up against, there may be disastrous results. A wounded foe is often the most dangerous kind.

UNLESS this year's world series is decided inside the set limit of seven games, new records may be established for both attendance and receipts. All of the more than 35,000 higher-priced reserved seats at the Yankee Stadium have been sold, and a sell-out is expected each day on 20,000 seats at $3 and 20,000 at $1. The St. Louis club has received fully $2,000,000 worth of ticket applications for the games at Sportsmans Park and much of that sum will have to be returned.

The present records for attendance and receipts were hung up during the series between the same clubs in 1926, and when the paid admissions for the seven games played totaled 328,052, and the financial intake was $1,207,864. The only other years in which the receipts reached the million-dollar mark were 1923, 1924 and 1925, though that total probably would have been attained again last year had the series not ended so quickly.

MILLER HUGGINS equaled the American League record for managerial pennant success when he led the Yankees to their sixth flag this year. The only other manager who has won six championships in the junior major circuit is Connie Mack of the Athletics.

John McGraw of the Giants tops all managers in both big loops, with 10 pennants to his credit.

HOWEVER, no other pilot in either wheel has ever paralleled Huggins' achievement of winning six pennants within such a short period as eight years. The closest approaches were made by Cap Anson, who won five in seven years as leader of the Chicago Nationals, and by McGraw and Frank Selee, each of whom won five in eight years, while leading the New York and Boston Nationals, respectively. Mack's best stretch was four in five years, a mark also reached by Frank Chance as manager of the Cubs.

Rogers Hornsby

IN COMING back and winning the National League batting championship after a lapse of two years, in which he saw the honors go to Bubbles Hargrave and Paul Waner, Rogers Hornsby has equaled the record of Honus Wagner, the only other man who ever led the swatters of that league seven times. Hornsby and Wagner each did it within a period of nine years.

No other player ever led the National League batters more than four times. Cap Anson won the crown in that number of seasons. Dan Brothers would have equaled Anson's mark had he not been tied for the leadership by Cupid Childs in 1892.

INTEREST LAGS ON FINAL DAY

Associated Press.

THE major league drama is done for another season, but the Yankees and the Cardinals still have an epilogue to offer. They meet in the world series starting at New York on Thursday and ending when one team has won four games.

With both pennant campaigns already decided, there was not much to interest the baseball fan in yesterday's closing engagements. Most of the game's faithful stayed away in large numbers, some of them, no doubt, resting up for the excitement that is to come later this week.

HOYT WINS BONUS

With a $2,000 bonus as incentive, Waite Hoyt, right handed ace of Miller Huggins' Yanks, pitched the American League champions to a 7 to 6 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Hoyt had been promised "two grand" as they say in the very best pugilistic circles, if he won 22 games this year. He was cuffed about rather freely by the Tigers but won his reward with the aid of Babe Ruth's fifty-fourth and Lou Gehrig's twenty-seventh home runs.

Already badly crippled, the Yankees narrowly escaped losing Gehrig's services for the world series when the big first baseman was struck in the face by a batted ball in the seventh. He collapsed, but recovered sufficiently to walk off the field.

The Philadelphia Athletics finished the season two and a half games back of the Yanks when they were thrown for a loss by the Chicago Whitesox in general and Bob Weiland, a rookie pitcher from the Mississippi Valley League in particular. Weiland held the A's to seven hits and fanned nine men. The sox scored the only run of the game in the seventh when Kamm singled home Reynolds from second base.

Goose Goslin's homer with two on in the fifth was the high spot of Washington's 9 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

The Boston Redsox romped to an easy 7 to 2 win over the Cleveland Indians, Phil Todt getting a home run and three singles.

CARDS LOSE FINAL

The St. Louis Cardinals, their second National League championship tucked away, did little but go through the motions at the Polo grounds and lost to the runner-up New York Giants, 4 to 2. Karl Hubbell and Fred Frankhouse allowed only six hits apiece, but two of the blows off the Cardinal hurler were home runs by O'Farrell and O'Doul. The Giants thus finished the season two full games behind the champions.

The Chicago Cubs, in third place, took the Cincinnati Reds into camp, 6 to 1, behind good pitching by Percy Jones.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, although no higher than sixth place, ended the season with one more victory than defeats when the Phillies were met and conquered, 5 to 1. It was the first time since 1924 that the Dodgers have finished with a percentage of .500 or better.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, champions of the league last year, but no better than fourth place holders in 1928, and the Boston Braves completed their schedules on Saturday.

AMERICAN LEAGUE NAMES SERIES UMPS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—President John A. Heydler, of the National League, was expected to name today two of his umpires to work with C. B. Owens and W. A. McGowan, American League arbiters, in the world series.

Owens is a veteran of many seasons, while McGowan is a young umpire whose work in the last Yankee-Athletics series was particularly impressive.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK SPORTS EDITOR

NOW that it's all over but the world series shouting, the Pirate pitching staff can start the work of getting ready for the first half of the season next year.

They won the last half pennant this year, but they don't have playoffs in the big leagues.

And the Giants and A's know now, after their gallant fights, that to the victors go the spoils and there's no payoff for second place.

LOT OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAMS EXPECTING WORKOUTS LAST SATURDAY GOT 'EM—AND HOW!

Saw Tommy Holleran, the Thiel coach, after his boys had held Pitt to a 20-0 score, and 6-0 until the last quarter, and complimented him on the sturdy play of his line. "Yeah, five of them are freshmen," he replied.

Two men who took their first good restful sleeps over the week-end were Miller Huggins and William McKechnie.

Rollers of 300 scores in duckpins this season will get gold medals. How about a prize for the guy who never crabs about the way the pins are spotted?

Winner of tonight's fight between Chuck Wiggins and Garfield Johnson at the Garden will challenge John Verona for the championship of the Hill.

AFTER STUDYING UP ON SHAKESPEARE FOR WEEKS, VINCENT RICHARDS FINALLY WAS ABLE TO DEFEAT KOZELUH.

Luis Firpo started training again when the news reached Buenos Aires that the United States had beaten the Argentine polo team in the first match of the international series.

Mike McTigue dusted off another canvas in Chicago t'other night.

Giants lost that protest because they had a good argument. Rules say a man is not permitted to block the baserunner's path unless he has the ball in his hand and is waiting to tag him. Photos show Catcher Hartnett of the Cubs blocking off Andy Reese at the plate and Third Baseman Beck running him down. Only way to win a protest is to be wrong.

RED MASON NEVER LOST A PROTEST IN HIS LIFE. PROVING HE NEVER WAS RIGHT.

Only six more days before a lot of other big football teams take it on the chin from the little ones.

Davis-Elkins has scored nine points in two games and whipped West Virginia and Navy. That's eliminating waste and cutting down the overhead.

How'd you like to have to make up Davis-Elkins' schedule for next year?

NOBODY. WANTS. TO. PLAY WITH DYNAMITE.

Elkins may not be so tough offensively, but its defense certainly is an offense to anybody's attack.

Next year, Davis and Elkins will be allowed to play only one of its teams at a time, Davis one Saturday and Elkins the next.

NO ONE OPPONENT SHOULD BE EXPECTED TO BEAT TWINS.

Football season for some people doesn't open until next Saturday, when Harvard, Yale and Princeton swing into action. Many coaches wish their season hadn't opened so soon.

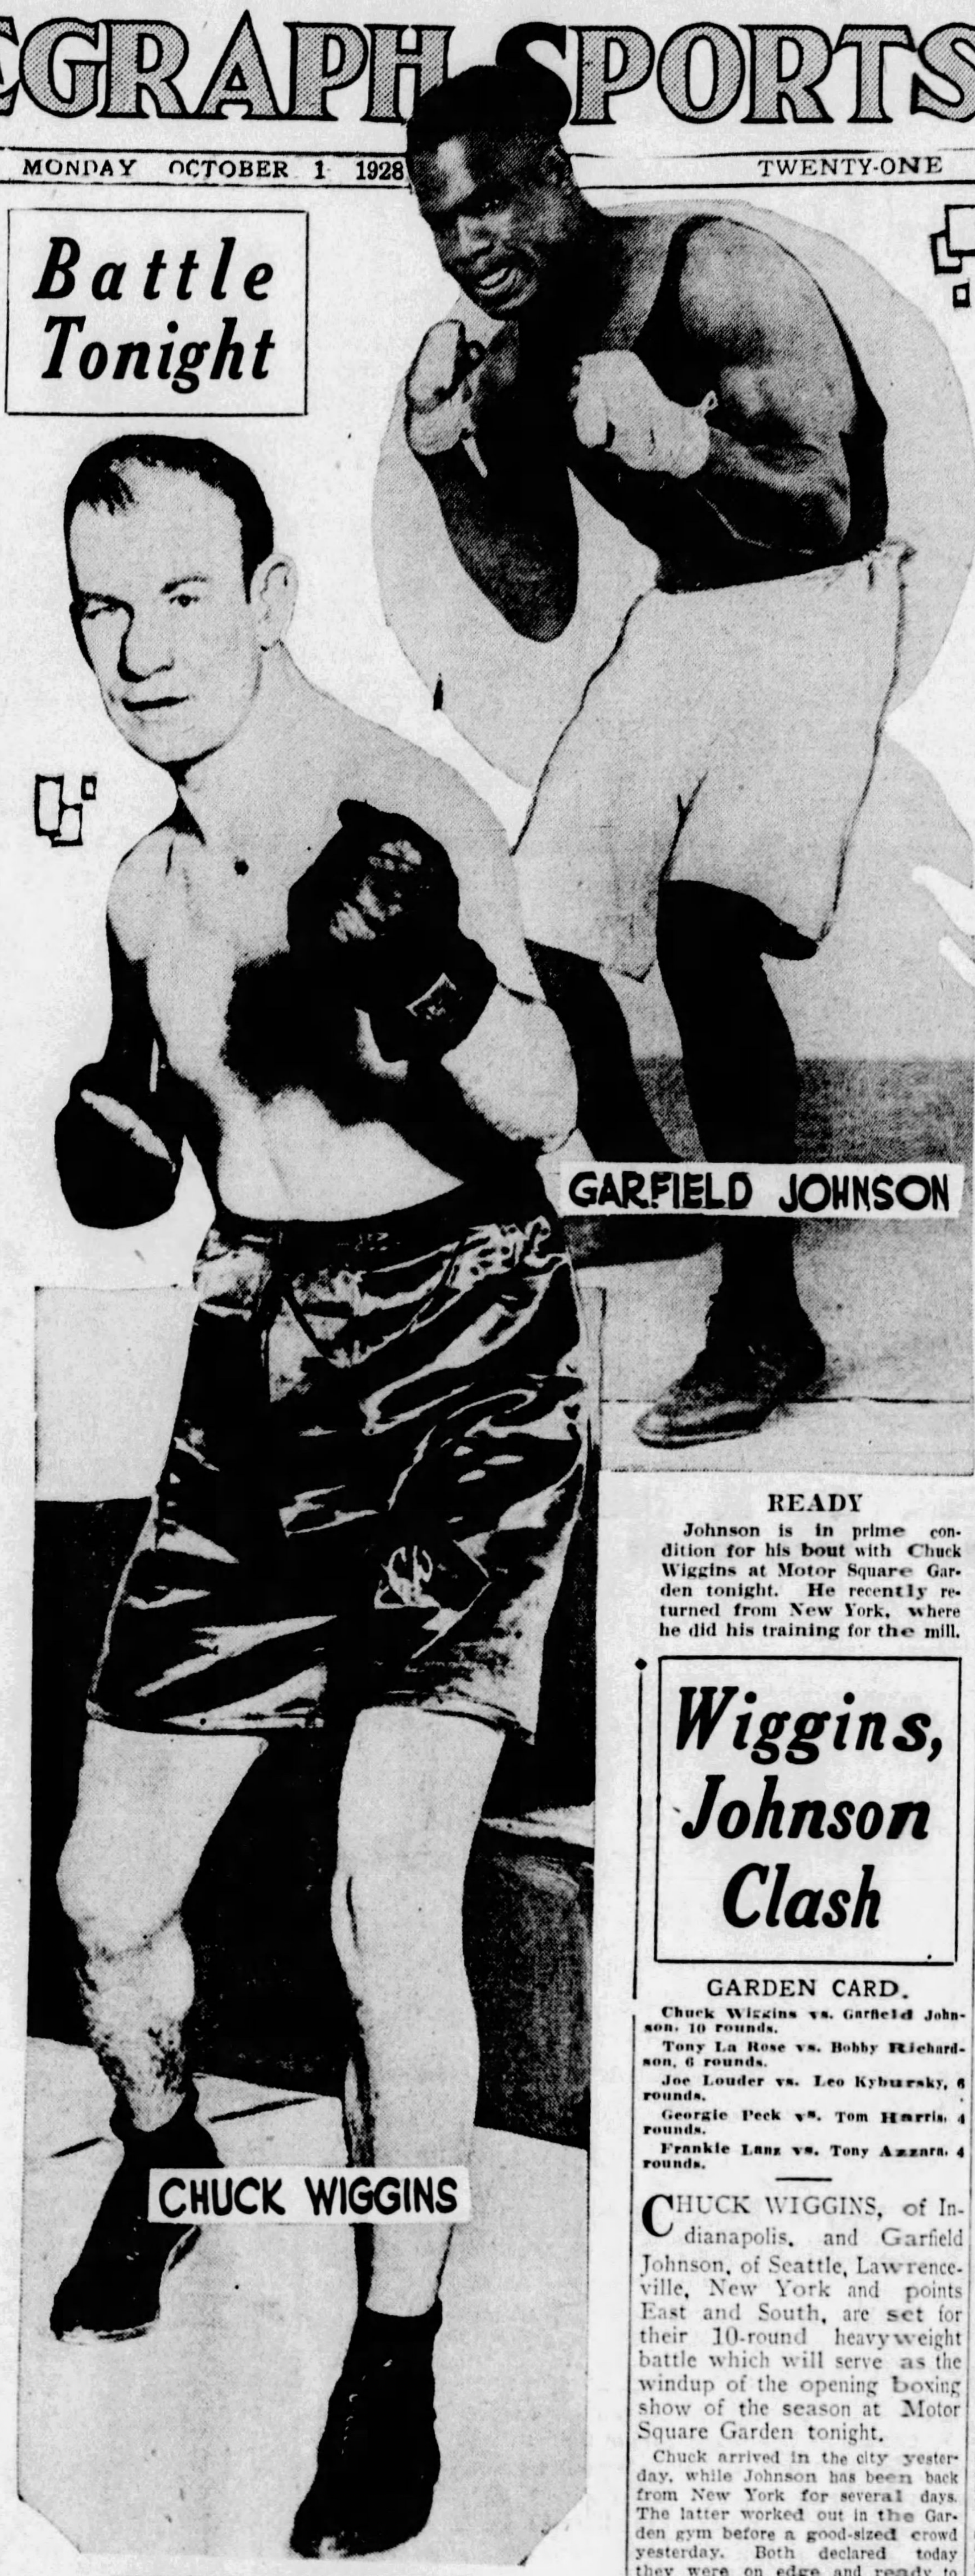
Nine pitchers threw a 12-12 called-by-darkness tie in the little world series last Saturday. That's certainly going nowhere in an effective manner.

With the big world series getting under way next Thursday, President Coolidge has proclaimed this Goofy Week. It is one of his last official acts.

TONY LAZZERI IS PRACTICING SWINGING AT GROVER ALEXANDER.

Geneva won its opening grid game with Adrian by only 75 to 0, leaving the coaches a good excuse to point out the flaws in running off plays when practice is resumed today.

Battle Tonight



READY

Johnson is in prime condition for his bout with Chuck Wiggins at Motor Square Garden tonight. He recently returned from New York, where he did his training for the mill.

VETERAN HEAVYWEIGHT

Wiggins is one of the real veterans among the active heavyweights. He has been boxing 12 years and has met almost all of the stars, including Gene Tunney, recently retired champion. He makes his local debut against Garfield Johnson, local Negro flash, in the windup of the first show of the season at Motor Square Garden tonight.

Tony La Rose vs. Bobby Richardson, 6 rounds.
Joe Louder vs. Leo Kybursky, 6 rounds.
Georgie Peck vs. Tom Harris, 4 rounds.
Frankie Lanz vs. Tony Azzara, 4 rounds.

CHUCK WIGGINS, of Indianapolis, and Garfield Johnson, of Seattle, Lawrenceville, New York and points East and South, are set for their 10-round heavyweight battle which will serve as the windup of the opening boxing show of the season at Motor Square Garden tonight.

Chuck arrived in the city yesterday, while Johnson has been back from New York for several days. The latter worked out in the Garden gym before a good-sized crowd yesterday. Both declared today they were on edge and ready to give the crowd a big opening night. They will weigh in and be examined at 3 p. m.

This battle marks the first appearance of Wiggins in Pittsburgh. A veteran of the ring, he has boxed all of the leading big fellows from Retired Champion Gene Tunney down. He met the late Harry Greb nine times. Johnson, who came here last season from Seattle and settled in Pittsburgh, has impressed the local fans with his lightning speed for a big fellow and his generalship.

Two six-round and two four-round preliminaries round out the card, which will get under way at 8:30 p. m. In the semi-final Tony La Rose, of Cincinnati, will make his local debut against Bobby Richardson, of Portage, and in the other six-round battle Joe Louder, of the South Hills, will attempt to gain revenge against Leo Kybursky, of Swissvale, for the defeat recently handed him by Leo at Duquesne.

M'KECHNIE EXPECTS 5-GAME SERIES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—"We ought to do it in five games—it may take longer."

And there you have a Cardinal viewpoint as expressed today to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph concerning the impending world series, the first game of which will be held Thursday afternoon.

Relaxing a bit after the finish of their terrific fight to clinch the National League pennant, the successors to the Pirates as national champions this morning were confident they will bring the banner, emblematic of baseball supremacy, back to the National League. Pittsburgh fans do not have to be told how the junior circuit took possession of the emblem.

M'KECHNIE MODEST

As usual Bill McKechnie is bearing his honors becomingly. The Wilkinsburg member appears to be the most obscure of all the guests at the Alamac Hotel, wherein the Redbirds are sheltered.

But McKechnie's natural tendency to stay in the background has nothing in common with the outspoken confidence he has in his team.

"Yes," said Skipper Bill to this correspondent, "I think we should defeat the Yanks. Our club is in fine spirit. The boys went down the home stretch successfully on hostile ground and on two occasions won long battles. We feel that we won the pennant in the proper way. Our gang didn't count much on the possible defeat of the Giants on Saturday. We figured the best thing to do was to win our own game, and this we were able to do.

"We will regret if Manager Huggins cannot get all of his regulars into action. It will be unfortunate if players like Combs and Pennock are unable to play, yet we would prefer to have them in there, for our fellows think that no club can stop us now.

PITCHERS IN SHAPE

"We have at least four good starting pitchers for the world series. I cannot say at this time who will open, but Sherdel, Alexander, Haines and Mitchell will all be available for duty. Moreover, we have Rhem and Johnson in fine shape.

"The same lineup that finished up the race will be seen in the world series. Maranville and High will be at short and third and it is likely that Wilson will catch every game. We have not a single excuse to offer and we think we will capture the honors."

The so-called experts of New York and other cities who are on the ground are stringing along with the convictions of the Cardinals. Even if the Yanks were in top shape, they would hardly be favorites over the Redbirds.

The fighting qualities of the Cards is one of their best assets. Yet from a standpoint of skill they stand out. Combining power and speed on the offense, the Redbirds have great defensive powers aside from the battery positions.

In pitching and catching, the National League champions have a big bulge on the inter-league rivals. With Pennock out, the Yankee sharpshooters cannot come close to slab skill possessed by the St. Louis flingers.

IN GREAT CONDITION

It is quite remarkable the Cards are in such fine shape on top of their activities of the hot summer. They have been on top most of the season and in the past two months their position has been seriously threatened. At one time they were actually displaced by the dangerous Giants.

Both teams face a problem that is worrying both pilots to some extent. The series is not due to start until Thursday and that means three days which will hold much idleness. Skipper Bill this morning is trying to arrange for three afternoon practice periods at the stadium for his Redbirds. Bill wants to get into action shortly after noon each day, but this detail has not been worked out.

TEAMS TO PRACTICE

Each team is expected to take long drills in order to keep in shape for the opener on Thursday afternoon.

The Cardinals and Giants played one of those free-and-easy games yesterday to wind up their season, the Giants winning, 4 to 2. The quality of ball played was up to the standard in some ways, but the big thing was missing from the game. The spirit of competition could not have been worked up to any feverish point under the conditions.

The New York management has announced a sell-out of reserved seats for the last contest, the fans gambling on the chance that the flag would still be at stake. Many thousands who purchased seats in advance did not attend, the speculators sustaining a heavy loss.

ROUTIS TO FIGHT HONEY BOY FINNEGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Andre Routis, young Frenchman who has scaled the featherweight championship heights, has signed to fight Dick (Honey Boy) Finnegan at the new Madison Square Garden opening in Boston, November 16, Joe Jacobs, Routis' manager, announced yesterday.

Routis' newly-won title will not be at stake.

BOOTH DEAD

Walter Booth, known to thousands of Pittsburgh's ice skaters who patronize Duquesne Garden, died Saturday in St. Francis Hospital after a brief illness of pneumonia. He was 74 years old.

ELECTRIC SCOREBOARD

Hagen's 35 Ties Par

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Play started here this morning on the Five Farms course of the Baltimore Country Club for the annual championship of the Professional Golfers' Association. Sixty-five players, including 64 qualifiers plus the defending champion, Walter Hagen, are playing 36 holes to qualify for 32 match play places. Match play starts tomorrow morning.

Hagen was the center of all eyes as he stepped to the first tee at 10 o'clock sharp, paired with Willie Ogg, of Worcester, and Olin Dutra, of Brentwood, Cal. Five times winner of this event in seven starts and for the first time in the history of American golf a defender of a major title for the fourth successive time Hagen is easily the favorite against the field.

Hagen sank a chip shot from off the ninth green to go out in 35. His card:

Out .... 4 4 4 3 4 5 4 5 2—35

He was exact par until the eighth, where he took three putts out of pure carelessness. He made it up with his birdie on the ninth.

Early scores were running high, as the pros found the new course, which is still somewhat soggy, very hard. The scores:

Hoosiers Take Lead

ROCHESTER, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—Indianapolis jumped into the lead in the "Little World Series" yesterday by defeating Rochester, 5 to 1, in the fourth contest.

Herman Bell, who started for the Red Wings, had a bad time in the fourth when Haney's single, a walk to Spencer, Warstler's bad bound over Toporcer and a double by Holke, put three runs across the plate for the Indians.

Steve Swetonic, who won the opening game, 3 to 2, had the Wings under control all the way. The standing of the teams is: Indianapolis, 2; Rochester, 1; tied, 1. The score:

PANTHERS, CARNEGIE, DUKES WIN

By JESS CARVER.

SOME impressive football performances were given by varsity elevens of the tri-state district Saturday as the boys hiked off on the 1928 campaign. Pitt, Tech and the Dukes, local favorites, got away to victorious starts, the Tartans perhaps being the most impressive despite their being scored on by Westminster.

It came as no big surprise, that stubborn battle Thiel gave old Pitt. In the first place, the Lutherans are 50 per cent stronger than they were in 1927 and Pitt somewhat weaker. In the second place, the Panthers have not been able to hit their proper stride, even in practices, and besides, it is very likely that Coach Sutherland issued strict orders to his assistants to show as little as possible in the opener. The Pitt football psychology this year will not be to turn in one-sided victories in any minor games. Thiel, however, will give any team a battle.

Carnegie Tech got the breaks against Westminster, but even at that, looked to possess the makings of a great football team, if not this year, then next. The linemen, especially the sophomore members, have much to learn. Capt. Harpster did not open up with any trick stuff, but the very power of the Skibo offense at times made some of the enemy scouts in the stands squirm. Harpster's passing was not quite up to par, but the aerial game of the Plaid was a potent factor in the win.

WESTMINSTER GAME

Westminster's tackling was hard and good, but the weakness in the Titan armor was found in its secondary defense and its defense against the forward pass. Westminster was far from disgraced, though, and will be a big noise in the Tri-State minor college title racee.

The Dukes found the Slippery Rock State Teachers to be opponents worthy of the best the Bluffmen could hand out in the way of attack and defense. It took Buff Donnelli's educated toe to subdue them. The Layden drilled eleven gave promise of developing into a powerful machine. At least, the boys got off to a win and were not scored upon. That was the fly in the ointment of the Tech victory as Westminster crossed the goal line.

Ira Rodgers got into the fold when his Mountaineers, forgetting the setback suffered at the hands of Davis-Elkins in the opener a week before, hammered out a 12-0 victory over West Virginia Wesleyan. Wesleyan entered the game almost an even choice to win, but the state university team came back wonderfully and sent the Methodists back to Buckhannon sadder and wiser.

W.-J. SHOWS CLASS

Wash-Jeff, after a bad first half, punched out a 24-0 win over a big Bethany eleven and restored some hope to the President followers. Jap Douds, the big tackle, was used both at his regular position and in the backfield. He gave little evidence of permanent handicap from the terrible accident he suffered when struck in the face with a skyrocket this summer, and along with Capt. Carlos Aschman, looms as the big kick of the Red and Black.

Davis-Elkins is slated for another holiday today. Last week the boys celebrated their 7-0 win over West Virginia. Today they will make merry over the 2-0 triumph scored at the expense of the Navy. I think Cam Henderson will find it trifle difficult to schedule games with major elevens next year. Most coaches try to steer clear of hurricanes, especially the sort that do not assure big gates.

Waynesburg took one on the chin at Buffalo, losing to St. Canisius 12-0. Allegheny showed power in crushing the strong Mt. Union College team 32-0 at Meadville. Geneva seems to be on the road to another fine season if the 75-0 victory over Adrian (Mich.) College means anything.

Dick Guy's St. Vincent College team was beaten 18-0 by the Carnegie Tech freshmen club.

HARD GAMES AHEAD

Pitt will work for the Bethany game this week with serious intent. Dr. Sutherland scouted the Bisons Saturday and their first half stand against W.-J. impressed the Doctor. Tech has little to fear in Ashland, the opponent for this week-end. West Virginia gets another test in the Haskell Indians; Westminster and Allegheny clash in an important minor college setto at New Wilmington and Geneva will hardly run up 75 points against Bucknell. Wash-Jeff will drill this week with the Waynesburg game in mind. The Dukes have Jack Harding's St. Thomas College eleven of Scranton for which to prepare.

NATS MAY FIRE BUCKY HARRIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—The Evening Star, in news story published yesterday, said that it had authoritative information that Stanley (Bucky) Harris, manager of the Washington American League baseball team, would not be retained by the club another season.

Clark C. Griffith, president of the Washington club, refused to comment upon the story in the Evening Star.

"I have no announcement to make now," he said, "and probably will not have one for several days."

The Star said that Harris, who in addition to being manager of the club, is its regular second baseman, was dissatisfied with his post, chiefly because of "razzing" by fans and that Griffith was disappointed over the poor showing of the team and its apparent inability to provide replacements for athletes who are on the downgrade.

Harris has been manager of the Washington team since 1924, winning the American League pennant that year and the world's series. He won the pennant the next year, but lost in the play-off.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Ty Cobb in the American League established the greatest record of all time by finishing first among the hitters 12 times in 13 years.

THOUGH naturally failing to attract or hold as much attention as it will later, when the baseball world series is over, football's start last Saturday was encouraging all around, bearing out even on the first day the early indications that 1928 is going to be a big year on the barred field. Interest will be spurred further next Saturday when the remainder of the prominent teams swing into action.

Pitt, Carnegie Tech and the Dukes all won their opening games, as had been generally anticipated, though the Panthers were given more trouble than they had looked for in the curtain-raiser with Thiel. Pitt's starting lineup was unimpressive, but Coach Sutherland is going slowly, and it is probable that in another week or two the Blue and Gold will look like a different team.

IT IS NOT a barren year for Uncle Sam in lawn tennis, after all. This country had little to celebrate in international competition prior to the closing day of the outdoor net season, but before the curtain fell last Saturday Vincent Richards saved one big title from the 1928 ruins by defeating Karl Kozeluh in the final round of the tournament for the world professional championship. The Czechoslovakian had been considered a sure winner, particularly as he had previously beaten Richards three times outside of tournament play, but on this occasion Vincent was in the greatest form of his life and gave an exhibition of tennis never surpassed anywhere in either amateur or professional play. Kozeluh had not been beaten since 1919, but against the wonderful form shown by Richards he was utterly helpless, though he tried everything under the sun, even to discarding his shoes and playing in his socks, later in his bare feet and then in socks again.

MEN WHO GUARD THEIR HEALTH SMOKE CIGARS

85% of the Doctors on the Staff of the University Hospital, Chicago are Cigar Smokers

La Palina is America's Largest Selling High Grade Cigar [OVER A MILLION A DAY] its outstanding popularity is the best proof of its unusual quality

"Cigar smoke is cool so will not affect throat" says prominent specialist.

THE principal doctors on the staff of this leading hospital were interviewed—each who used tobacco in any form smoked cigars. There can be no stronger evidence that medical opinion favors cigar smoking.

Cigar smoking is not a mere nervous habit. Cigars are smoked for the taste, the comfort and the solace they yield—slowly and leisurely. One is not lighted from the end of another, nervously and hurriedly, so the day's end does not find the cigar smoker tired and irritable due to an exhausted nerve condition.

A cigar need not be inhaled in order to enjoy the rich exquisite taste of the tobaccos to the full. Indeed, few cigar smokers inhale at all.

Then, too, most of the throat troubles that are so prevalent amongst smokers can be ascribed to the burning, drying effect of hot tobacco smoke. To use the words of a well-known New York throat specialist:—

"Cigar smoke is cool. A cigar is smoked leisurely—and since no quick-burning foreign substance is used for wrapper the tobacco burns slowly and is further cooled and filtered as it is drawn through the body of the cigar. So a cigar has no tendency to create annoying throat conditions."

Make this test for a week—smoke cigars exclusively and you will find yourself feeling better, with no cough or throat irritation, improved nerves, increased vitality and less of that tired feeling.

To really test cigars with justice to yourself and to cigars, we suggest the test be made with La Palinas. Since they are America's largest selling high grade cigar ... over a million a day—you can smoke them, confident that they will please you.

The sensational success of La Palina results from an exclusive and secret blend which combines for the first time in one cigar an extreme mildness with a rare richness of both taste and fragrance.

Business, Stocks Discount Election; Dividends Rise.

By B. C. FORBES

INDUSTRY, business, stock market, all are acting on the assumption that the presidential election result will help, not hurt.

The odds nominally quoted in Wall Street are better than 2 to 1 in favor of Hoover. Whether the stock market will yet suffer a spell of pre-election "nerves" looks doubtful.

Industry's pace has distinctly quickened.

Railway freight is now running above last year. The 1928 harvests, taken by and large, are abundant and this cannot fail to prove a helpful factor even though prices for certain commodities are undesirably low. Expansion in construction has been extraordinary at many points, insuring total results for the year way ahead of 1927. Demand for steel has again broadened, with urgent calls for prompt delivery. Our amazing motor industry continues to amaze; it is breaking all records for this season of the year.

Such laggards as textiles, coal, oil all are doing somewhat better. Non-ferrous metals, led by copper after its long period of dormancy, are enjoying something approaching a boom. Consumption of electric energy shows healthy growth. Employment reports are more cheerful. Prices for manufactured goods are well maintained.

RETAIL merchandising is very irregular. The weather has helped in certain sections but has retarded trade in others. Mercantile failures still are unpleasantly numerous. But the general expectation is that Christmas trade will prove satisfactory.

SPECULATION in stock goes on very actively despite the serious handicap of 7½ per cent time money, 6 to 8 per cent call money and expansion in brokers' loans to almost the highest peak ever touched. The new week is likely to bring further stiffening of rates in Wall Street, but thereafter the tendency, in the writer's opinion, is not likely to be sharply upwards as generally predicted. The Federal Reserve authorities assuredly will use their influence to keep rates for agricultural and commercial borrowing within reasonable limits.

IN THE eyes of the writer, the stock market at the moment looks peculiarly fatigued. There is every indication that distribution, not accumulation, is the dominant aim of the powerful capitalists who have been engineering the bull movement. It is doubtful, however, whether very extensive unloading has yet been possible. Whenever the market dips the public pull in their horns. There is little incentive to purchase the most prominent stocks for their present investment yield. The return in most instances is little better than half what it costs to carry them on borrowed money. In the past such a condition has invariably portended a drastic change in the market's course.

However, so many precedents have already been upset during this unique bull market that this precedent also may be smashed. The writer, for one, favors keeping close to shore.

DIVIDEND records exclusively compiled for readers of this column made a very impressive showing for the first nine months of this year. Favorable changes have totaled 955, compared with 755 a year ago and 609 for 1926.

SEPTEMBER brought 135 cheerful dividend announcements, against 104 in September of last year.

The form taken by the favorable dividend changes announced by industrial, public utility and railway directors during the last nine months, along with comparisons for 1927, follow:

	1928 Ind.	1928 PU.	1928 RR.	1927 Ind.	1927 PU.	1927 RR.
Extra	349	14	12	292	14	12

Back	27	0	0	30	2	0
Resumed	21	1	1	28	2	0
Totals	860	71	24	643	88	24

The monthly figures for the last five years are summarized in the following table:

	1928	1927	1926	1925	1924
January	111	89	87	69	78
February	98	81	72	64	49
March	99	93	102	81	67
April	70	60	60	34	45

November	....	136	103	96	63
December	....	205	184	147	104
Totals	....	1179	1025	811	621

OF COURSE, all dividend changes have not been in an upward direction. It is gratifying to note, however, that the unfavorable changes for the first three quarters this year have totaled only 117, contrasted with 131 a year ago. It is hardly likely that the final quarter will make a poor showing in this respect.

ALTOGETHER the United States enters the final quarter of 1829 in very satisfactory condition.

Industry is on a thoroughly sound basis; retail trade is, on the whole, moderately good; transportation and utility enterprises are well circumstanced; agriculture, as always, is not by any means uniformly prosperous; unemployment has notably decreased; the money market would not be strained had stock speculation been less rampant; the presidential campaign is causing not even a ripple, the stock market constitutes the big question mark.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Money Up, Stocks Mixed.

The money market tightened up further today following the sharp raise in call loan rates last Friday. On that day loans renewed at 6 per cent, the lowest for many weeks, but later advanced to 8. Today the renewal rate was 7 per cent, but calling in of loans by the banks caused additional stringency and the rates moved steadily higher, going above Friday's top figure. The market was rather buoyant in spots in the early dealings, but met successive waves of selling which prevented the main list from making any noticeable headway. A few specialties rushed ahead, and Chrysler Motor put up a pugnacious fight against any attempts to depress its price, but there was very little spirit to the dealings in the market as a whole. Warren Foundry and Pipe was a conspicuous strong spot as buying orders for the stock disclosed a scarcity of the issue at anything near the prices at which it had been selling for a week. Its opening was 3 points higher at 28. The company has a new process for welding pipe and it is said some of the other pipe companies have been trying to get control. Byers and Spang Chalfant are mentioned in this connection. The stock was tipped here in Pittsburgh a few days ago, and while there was some profit taking on today's spurt, it is thought most of the local holdings are practically intact.

Sears, Roebuck.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported a September sales increase of 21.9 per cent, highest in any year in the company's history. Sales were $30,004,372, against $24,608,712 for September, 1927. The last nine months, $231,365,458, against $199,255,662 for the same period last year.

Woolworth Prospects.

H. T. Parson, president of F. W. Woolworth Company, returning from Europe today, said the company's earnings were well ahead of last year, with a prospect of a gain of 20 per cent at the year over 1927. Action on an increased dividend, he said, would not be taken until after the turn of the year. He added that the policy of passing to stockholders their share of increased earnings would probably prevail.

Morris, Brown New Partners.

Morris, Brown & Co., one of Pittsburgh's oldest brokerage houses, announced the admission into general partnership of Dr. Ogden M. Edwards and Albert G. Wells. Mr. Wells, prior to his new affiliation, was president of Wells, Deane and Singer, Inc., of which he was one of the organizers. Dr. Edwards is a trustee of the University of Pittsburgh and was formerly a wellknown local practitioner. The firm of Morris, Brown & Co. was organized in 1885 by Joseph C. Morris, a charter member of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, and Richard B. Brown. The firm has been a member of the New York Stock Exchange since 1897 and in 1902 admitted James E. Brown into partnership, succeeding Mr. Morris. R. J. Davidson retires as a partner owing to prolonged ill health.

HIGHER MONEY RATE REIGNS IN STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP.)—High call money rates, the outgrowth of unusually heavy quarterly disbursements, had a restraining effect on trading in today's stock market, which displayed an irregular price trend. Flurries of selling swept through the market at intervals, causing sharp recessions in some of the recent favorites.

Resumption of pool operations lifted a number of specialties to new high records. Coty responded to the announcement of a 4 for 1 stock split-up by advancing 4 points to a new high record at 264. Other issues to move into new high ground included Paramount Famous Lasky, A. M. Byers, Warren Pipe and Foundry, Lambert, Federal Mining and Smelting, Rock Island and Pittsburgh and West Virginia, the gains ranging from 1 to 5 points.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent, but advanced to 7½ and then 8 as banks called more than $25,000,000 in loans. There was a marked scarcity of loanable funds, reviving fears of a further advance in the rate during the next few days. Easier credit conditions are anticipated later in the week.

Reports of a marked expansion in September sales of Woolworth and Sears, Roebuck apparently had been discounted, as several of the chain store and mail order shares turned weak in the afternoon. Selling pressure also was quite effective against such issues as General Motors; Gillette Safety Razor, Warner Brothers, A and B, McCrory Stores B, Allied Chemical and International Telephone.

Leading commission houses continued to urge extreme caution in the making of new committments, and urged profit-taking in some of the recent strong spots. "Bear" selling also was more aggressive in character, being aided by the long ticker delays.

WHEN CONFIDENCE OBTAINS

The ease and certainty with which a bank responds to its depositors' needs are important factors in gaining confidence

Every bank, whether large or small, old or new, is built upon confidence, and the extent of confidence a bank enjoys largely determines its growth and usefulness.

When the confidence of banker and customer is mutual, each shares a valuable and practical asset that increases as time passes.

Business organizations should have accounts with banks, which deserve their confidence and which meet all reasonable requirements with ease and precision.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

Last Quarter of '28 Starts Here With Production and Prices in More Satisfactory Condition.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE Pittsburgh district is starting the last quarter of 1928 with most of its industries working at a high rate. The three months ended on September 30 were marked by steady improvement in both volume and prices.

In the first half of the year "profitless prosperity" was cause for lament in many lines of activity. The volume of sales was moderately good, but prices were too low to yield a satisfactory profit. Little complaint of such a situation has been heard recently. There has been a gradual upturn in the prices of many Pittsburgh products.

IMPROVEMENT in prices has been particularly marked in the steel industry. Along with the larger return on each unit of manufacture have come increased sales. With only a few exceptions, Pittsburgh business is exceptionally good.

The steel industry got off to a poor start at the beginning of 1928, but the prediction that tonnage produced this year would break all previous records is now quite safe.

Many steel companies also will show greater profits than in 1927.

THE electrical industry showed some dullness in the spring, but a steady improvement in volume has been apparent for several months.

Makers of refractory materials are enjoying both good volume and steady prices.

THE window glass factories are selling in large quantities, and prices have been advanced, although they still leave a very narrow margin of profit.

The plate glass industry so far this year has reported greater production than in 1927, but prices remain low.

RETAIL distribution is in good volume. Cool weather has stimulated seasonal buying. The stores will soon be in their Christmas rush.

If industrial activity continues at its present rate no apprehension need be felt over sales for the next few months.

COAL mining is the only large industry which clouds the prosperity picture. Coal prices, with the exception of domestic sizes, are too low for the average mine to show a profit. Theoretically there is still a coal strike in this district, but the operators can get all the miners they need. Unfortunately, little hope can be seen for a substantial improvement in the coal business for some time.

THE task of changing workers into capitalists has been greatly advanced by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Over 100,000 employes have bought 350,000 shares of stock on a deferred-payment basis.

The offer was remarkably generous. Under the plan, employes were allowed to purchase up to 10 shares each at the par value of $50 a share. The stock has been selling at about $64. The annual dividends are $3.50 a share, so that a yield of 7 per cent will be paid on the workers' money.

Payment can be made in from 10 to 24 months. Cash payments were not accepted.

Interest of 6 per cent will be credited to each account until the stock has been delivered. Until that time no dividends will be paid.

The demand for the stock was so great that it was necessary to allot only nine shares each to the 16,000 employes desiring the maximum of 10 shares.

MAY DRUG MOVES UP FOLLOWING N. Y. RISE

Trading was active and prices were steady to strong on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, reflecting the strength with which dealings were carried on in the New York market.

Standard Sanitary Manufacturing got away to a strong start in New York, but the stock was late appearing on the board here. The stock ran up sharply in the early trading on the "big board" with the Street hearing rumors that liquidation of a large block of stock overhanging the market for several months had been completed and the holdings thus disposed of placed in strong hands. At the beginning of the selling movement Standard was around 42, from which it sank back to around 34. Subsequently it rallied to around 36 and hovered at that level for weeks. It closed here Saturday at a fraction above 36. At the end of the first hour this morning it was heading toward 40 with bidders actively calling for the shares.

Lone Star Gas firmed up today after having suffered a drop of about 3 points in the past few days. Buyers were taking the stock at slowly rising prices in the session today, although there was no news bearing on the issue.

May Drug was in demand following an upturn in the shares on the New York curb. Pool operations in this issue have been rumored in the Street for some time, but it was gossiped around that the break in the market last June caused postponement of the clique's activities.

Central Ohio Steel held close to the figures at which it finished last week when it spurted about 3 points. The company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents on Saturday.

Remove Politics Blight From Police Department!

If the present graft investigation brings to the people of Pittsburgh a realization of the necessity of divorcing police and politics, it will be a blessing indeed.

Sometime ago the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, noting the game of ducks and drakes involving the disposition of our police for political reasons, suggested that our guardians of the peace be taken entirely out of the control of politicians. That was the intent of appointments through civil service, but it is evident that this plan does not go far enough.

There should be no politics, whatever, in the Bureau of Police. A policeman should have no "boss" except the public, and he should not be permitted, let alone required, to perform political service of any nature for any political agent, from the little peanut variety of district leader to the big peanut variety, that may have influence even in the Mayor's office.

Good citizens do not object to politics—or politicians of the right kind—only the peanut variety that has been so active in Pittsburgh recently. Lincoln was a politician. Eventually he became a statesman, of course, but he also was a politician all his public life—first a small one, then a great one. No, there is no objection to politics, itself, but to the kind of degraded politics that Pittsburgh has had to put up with lately.

We should not permit machine politics that thrive on protected vice to endanger our morals and our property, through the control of the police, a minute longer than is necessary.

Police average like the rest of the social body—that is, the same average of honesty and decency prevails among them. The majority of them are upright and honorable, real men willing to do their duty, and impatient of the interference with their work that comes from venal politicians.

Let us remove them from their bondage! Let us make the present agitation about graft in the bureau an occasion to emancipate the honest policeman forever from the slimy touch of vice-tained politics. Let us take all control of the Bureau of Police from the city administration and make it a separate activity, controlled by a commission or some other agency, easily removable for cause, and directly answerable to the people.

This is a big program. It will mean a long, bitter fight—BUT IT CAN BE DONE!

Just to Amuse Bricklayers--

We Print This Bricklaying Picture.

WINSTON CHURCHILL, CHANCELLOR OF THE BRITISH EXCHEQUER, AS A BRICKLAYER. REGULAR BRICKLAYERS, PLEASE, DON'T LAUGH.

This shows Winston Churchill, son of Lord Randolph Churchill, grandson of old Leonard Jerome, Wall Street stock broker and partner of Bill Travers, building his own house, and laying his own bricks. The girl is his daughter, keeping track of the bricks, acting as helper, and noting her father's speed.

Just why the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who handled hundreds of millions for the British Empire, should devote time to bricklaying, nobody knows. Perhaps, and PROBABLY, the gentleman likes to have people talk about him.

Possibly he was annoyed with the unions, people that have never really WORKED often feel that annoyance.

At all events, this Britisher, who lays bricks with thick kid gloves on his hands, a cigar in his mouth and without overalls, is proud of being able to lay 600 bricks a day.

Any regular bricklayer could do that job in the early morning, do it over again in the afternoon, and rest the greater part of the day.

He DOESN'T, because unions find it desirable not to lay too many bricks.

And in that, within reason, they are right.

In old days contractors used to hire what they called "rushers." They would get a young man in the prime of life, expert, fast, and pay him secretly a bonus for the number of bricks that he laid above the average capacity. The older men that had put a lifetime of vitality into bricklaying had to keep up with him, keep their end of the wall level with his, or run the risk of discharge.

Fortunately for human beings and human decency, the unions regulating a day's work ended that.

Bricklayers, when they see this picture, will enjoy it as the professional coachman used to enjoy seeing his master drive four horses in old days. The horses were checked up, so they couldn't do anything, even if they wanted to.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, October 1.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and half filled the bath tub with cracked ice and plunging into it turned blue, which affrighted me, so I sat about chattering like a baboon and looking foolish most the morning.

So for a bite with a gentleman who lives in a roof penthouse and Ed C. Hill, the gazeteer, there and also an exotic lady who lives in Constantinople, but whose name I cannot spell or pronounce. And there was much aloof highblown talk which eventually turned to the subject of pretzels and conversation became general.

In the evening for a motor ride to Easthampton and had an iced drink on the Irvin Cobbs verandah and John N. Wheeler and wife and some others there and Irvin showed us his collection of Indian pictures. Home late to bed and fell asleep reading of Marco Polo.

Criminals like proverbial birds of a feather, flock together in New York. There is a block on West Forty-ninth street that is the hangout of auto thieves. Pickpockets have their rendezvous on Fourteenth street. The Times Square section is a fertile pasture for confidence sharps and crooked gamblers. Shoplifting ladies seek the seclusion of suburban towns. Professional beggars have a roost on Bleecker street and the gun toting gorillas have the lower East Side for their base. Circus grafters, when not on the road, are to be found along Tenth avenue. Cheap dope peddlers in Chatham Square.

In proportion to numbers, it is said, pickpockets suffer the least from arrest. Their calling is the most furtive of all criminal activities. Unless they are caught in the act, it is rare they are taken in hand.

Without, it is our criminal department talking again, the "fence"—the depot for thieves' loot—thievery would be a comparatively profitless calling. A crime hunter would rather nab the proprietor of a fence than a dozen well known criminals. They usually camouflage their business with an air of respectability.

To appearances they may be conducting a reputable clothing or jewelry store, a restaurant or hotel. There are some in expansive offices with titles of "Architect," "Real Estate" and such other worthy occupations gilded on frosted doors.

* * *

At the Seventy-second street subway station one morning I saw a pickpocket who had been caught in the act, a woebegone fellow down at heel and out at elbow. He was in grip of a stalwart plainclothesman and his sickly white pallor and obvious twitching from cocaine made him about the most abject creature one ever saw. Riding to the next station across from him one could not help out be impressed by the slimness and remarkable grace of his hands. They had the extraordinary nimbleness seen only on talented violinists and pianists.

Overheard on a bus top: "I'll say they are swell. You'd probably find stray caviar in their garbage."

While strolling in Central Park this evening putting finishing touches on a castle in Spain, a sleek gentleman with that easy air of prosperity New Yorkers know so well, commanded me to get off the grass. I obeyed, but if I were rich I wouldn't be so petty about a little grass that didn't belong to me.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Man the Climber

"To my mind one of the strongest proofs of evolution is found in the swinging of our arms whenever we walk. Does not this universal habit indicate our quadrupedal ancestry?"—A. W. Parsons, M. D., Wildwood, Tex.

TAKEN in connection with other more specific structural indications, the habit of swinging the arms may be a token of the derivation of the human body type from a four-footed animal form. But that habit is strongly suggestive of balancing action, and seems to point more definitely to a former tree-life. A logical line of development, indicated by recent studies, might begin with a ground-living quadruped, whose four-square structure would be naturally accordant with the law of gravitation.

Next, assume an ascent into trees, under the pressure of necessity produced by either fear or hunger. This would initiate a change of function for the fore limbs, making them arms instead of legs, so that they would be used for grasping and pulling rather than for walking. Note that the limbs changed into arms are precisely those situated nearest the head, the center of intelligent control, and never those at the farther end of the body.

This is strictly logical. Watch any quadruped trying to climb. Its head has to be lifted first, for it contains the eyes and the organs of hearing and consequently becomes the necessary leader. A quadruped cannot progress backward after the manner of some invertebrates. There being two sets of limbs, the pair nearest the head control and guide the body. From this pair in man, the highest of four-limbed animals, are developed the marvellous arms and HANDS which give him his supremacy and are the physical factors of his civilization.

Then the creature thus altered from a walker to a climber, from a quadruped to a clambering biped, may be supposed to have descended from his trees, the necessity that drove him up into them having become less exigent, and thereupon his third metamorphosis would begin. With this change new uses would be found for the arms and hands. In the trees their principal function was grasping and swinging; perhaps they were to some extent used for throwing. But on the ground they would become invaluable for defense. The throwing instinct would be increasingly developed. Stones and sticks would be the first weapons. With the use of the hands mechanical ingenuity would begin.

The possessor of these powers and possibilities would be virtually a new creature upon the earth. His temporary exile to the trees would have been the making of him. The mere change of two of his legs into two arms furnished with tool-making, and ALL-making, hands would have turned him from a lowly plodder over the ground, and his face alweays near the soil, to an upright, alert, heaven-regarding far-looking masterful being, the destined ruler of the earth.

I protest that I cannot see any derogation from the majesty of God or the dignity of man in supposing some such course of evolution as this to have been the way taken in the development of the physical creature, the highly advanced animal, called man. This does not attack the spiritual nature of man's soul. We know that that soul has to have a physical abode during its terrestrial existence; that that abode, then, should have been prepared by an evolutional transformation of the common terrestrial type of biological existence is far more logical, and more respectful to the Creator, than most of the anthropomorphic devices ascribed to him by the theologians

We have no need for shame if we recognize in the instinctive swinging of our arms as we walk an ancestral manner acquired during a banishment into the tree world which became the school for the faculties by which the future glory of our race was destined to be wrought out.

Against the Barmaids

PARLIAMENT in England will consider a bill for the prevention of barmaids. The existence of barmaids in England is a fine example of the policy of non-interference of the English government. It moves only when forced by public opinion or economic situations which have become impossible.

Parliament may pass the barmaid-prevention bill, but we should not care to bet on it, even though most sensible people are theoretically in favor of it.

Have You Been Accepted?

YOU think that certain persons or groups are friendly to you.

It might surprise you to know that you are included pending good behavior.

Of course, that is not the way they would put it.

But just the same they are sounding you out with a purpose.

Are you their kind?

You seem to have thoughts and manners and experiences in common.

But the better the crowd, the higher the standards, the more desirable the society, the slower they are to include you wholeheartedly in the circle of their friendship.

You would like to make this or that sorority or fraternity.

Who recommends you, is the first question.

How far do these persons go toward establishing your standing?

Do you see how essential it is that you are strongly and unmistakably identified with the right crowd, at home?

If you think that you can do petty, mean little tricks and then step into a totally different and more desirable group away from home or in another city you forget that the world is small.

Have a code that is worthy and live up to it.

The Universal Debt

THIS is the universal debt:
To make Earth's good grow better yet,
To lessen, though by smallest share,
The burdens weary brothers bear,
To give sweet solace to the old
As shadows of the night unfold;
For those who come, to leave in trust
A heritage of life more just,
More sweet than life has been before,
To seek faith's heights, to find truth's core,
This is the debt which all men owe
To those who come, to those who go.

Isn't It So?

It is better to lay bricks than to throw them.

Many a swelled head is saved by a thick skull.

Great Passages from the Bible

A Prayer For Guidance

(Psalm 5)

GIVE ear to my words, O Lord, consider my meditation.

Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto thee will I pray.

My voice shalt thou hear in the morning, O Lord; in the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee, and will look up.

For thou art not a God that hath pleasure in wickedness: neither shall evil dwell with thee.

The foolish shall not stand in thy sight: thou hatest all workers of iniquity.

Thou shalt destroy them that speak leasing: the Lord will abhor the bloody and deceitful man.

But as for me, I will come into thy house in the multitude of thy mercy: and in thy fear will I worship toward thy holy temple.

Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteousness because of mine enemies; make thy way straight before my face.

For there is no faithfulness in their mouth; their inward part is very wickedness; their throat is an open sepulchre; they flatter with their tongue.

Destroy thou them, O God; let them fall by their own counsels; cast them out in the multitude of their transgressions; for they have rebelled against thee.

But let all those that put their trust in thee rejoice: let them ever shout for joy, because thou defendest them: let them also that love thy name be joyful in thee.

For thou, Lord, wilt bless the righteous; with favour wilt thou compass him as with a shield.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

YOU know, some men feel different to others about their wives getting married again. Well, I mean mostly when they are dead.

Now, there was an oil man out in Oklahoma that was feeling pretty sick, and he got his lawyer to write his will for him. He started out by leaving $100,000 to his wife. When he got that far the lawyer says, "Say, that is mighty liberal of you, but did you ever think of putting in a special clause to regulate this here legacy in case she gets married again?"

"No, I never thought of that. But I guess I better put in something like that. All right, you say that if she gets married again I make it $200,000, and half of it is to go to her husband."

"Well," says the lawyer, "that there is kind of different to most of the wills I have made. You know they generally make it less, instead of more, if the widow gets married again."

"Yes," the old man says, kind of tired like, "but then Sarah is a mighty unusual woman. And I'm glad to be able to leave some sort of extra compensation to the guy that gets her."

Mustard!

IN a certain state the governor's birthday was being celebrated by a masked ball.

Unfortunately, things became rather slow, and the governor announced that he was bored.

At this stage a comedian came upon the scene. Everybody and everything hushed—all was expectancy.

"Sir," began the comedian, "why is it that the army is very like the sausage dogs we have been eating tonight?"

"I do not know."

"Because," replied the fun-maker, edging away, "they aren't any good unless they're mustered."

How to Write a Detective Story

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The detective story has become an institution. Almost every publishing house issues one or more a month.

This implies that there are thousands of writers hoping to compose a successful detective story.

It may be of assistance to many of these aspiring writers to know the essentials of this kind of a tale.

There is a certain amount of hokum useful anywhere.

Actors use it. Certain storm scenes, shipwreck scenes and battle scenes are standardized for almost any movie that wants them. So there are some things necessary in any good mystery story. They are:

1. Hawkshaw was a mild, insignificant looking man. He had pale, watery blue eyes, but somehow seemed to observe every thing in his surroundings.

2. The detective looked at him with a steely glint in his eyes.

3. Hawkshaw smiled a grim smile.

4. "Ah," said Hawkshaw, "I see the man that made this pencil mark on the wall had an Uncle Dudley that was killed in the war, also an Aunt Maria from Lowell, Massachusetts, who was descended from a long line of New England old maids, his grandfather on his mother's side had a wart on his nose and his third cousin was named Elmer and he wore a number eleven shoe."

"Marvelous," said I.

"Not at all," replied the detective. "Simply deduction."

5. "Whom do you suspect?" I asked.

"I never tell my conclusions until I have evidence usable in court," said Hawkshaw, "but I will arrest the criminal at half past 3 tomorrow afternoon."

6. Detective work is mostly infinite pains and hard work.

7. I had a feeling that there was someone in the room with me. I could see nothing nor hear nothing, but I sensed someone's presence.

8. Eleanor was a beautiful girl. The moment I saw her I knew that I had met the one woman for me. She, however, did not know this so well.

9. "That man is not guilty," said Hawkshaw. "I will stake my reputation on it, although all circumstances point to his guilt."

10. As soon as he was apprehended the criminal kindly broke down and told us all how it happened. In good detective stories the criminal usually tells the reader all he wants to know.

11. The detective smiled mysteriously and filled his pipe.

12. Everybody took a whisky and soda. If you cannot get any good whisky in the United States you can always get it in story books.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By LEOLA ALLARD.

LADY and her husband came into Madison avenue cafe, in New York, with small dog. Good dog, as dogs go, and lady has him tucked under her arm. Park him at the door with the umbrellas? They should say NOT! They carried him to a small table with them, and the silly lady held the pup close while she ordered her dinner. Against the rules, but the proprietor didn't want to get rough. She was SUCH a nice lady.

The husband was as solicitous of the dog as most men would have been of a sick child. From the looks on their faces, I think they were asking the little snip what he wanted to eat. I didn't wait to see.

And orphans all over the country who would give such beautiful response to attention like that!

A 17-year-old baby vamp at the theater next to me, wearing a wicked shade of red velvet. I wondered if she knew just now revealing that low neck was. Then the lights snapped out and she immediately began arranging her gown. NO, not so it would be LESS revealing.

A very young man with her, being put where American women love to put men—at a tremendous disadvantage.

The women who should be shoved up to the front line trenches where the fighting is thickest, are those who, when the curtain drops on the last act, sit tight to their seats and begin to "make up." Leisurely they arrange their hair, holding a small mirror in front of them, paint their cheeks and lips and put their hat on exactly right—and a whole line of people waiting to get out into the aisle.

Try and walk past one of them! You will find her knees glued to the seat in front of her.

If they MUST shoot someone at sunrise, why not the women who get into elevators, stand half way back and refuse to let other people in, all pleas of the elevator pilot notwithstanding?

Or if not they, why not the saleswomen who huddle in the corner of the ready-to-wear departments, and talk about the customers, instead of waiting upon them? And when one of them comes out of the huddle to ask if she CAN do anything for you, you have the feeling that if she could, she wouldn't.

When Gen. Chang, the Chinese leader, got back from the battle front the other day, badly defeated, he found all but eight of his 28 wives were gone. If a woman has to be one of 28 she wants to be chained to the winner. Some women want only the winners even here in America, where they have only one wife—at a time.

You haven't noticed many old-fashioned gold band wedding rings lately, have you? Prompted by deep sentiment, the girls are exchanging them for new ones of platinum set with diamonds. And as a matter of fact, they don't need anything to remind them of their wedding day—any of their wedding days. They are trying, so many of them (and VERY successfully) to forget them.
